College of

Plowing Land for an Addition to the Gardens

F a few men do not feel more solicitous for the aches and pains of their fellows, all the pills and powders henceforth may conform to concocters—for half of the drug mixers down in the Chem Shack are girls. Charles Willis Johnson, dean of the college, ascribes this pheopportunities in pharmaceutical vocations offered at the present time.

Whatever the cause, the fact remains, there are twenty-six women in this college, ferreting out the time-old secrets, bitter and sweet, liquid, solid, and gas. And what more deadly combination than a woman with a secret?

The College of Pharmacy was organized in 1894 for the purpose of offering to young men and women an opportunity to become well-trained practical pharmacists. Not content with turning out mere practical pharmacists, Dean Johnson and Arthur W. Linton have this year introduced into the department a four-year combined sclentific and business course-salesmanship, advertising, business law and banking—which is to fit the "taker" for a responsible position in either retail or wholesale pharmacon.

The triangle is now complete—woman, a secret and a head. Death stalks just four years hence, friends, in 1923! All this fatal experimentation on soups, soaps and sudden suicides takes place in the Chem Shack, alias Bagiey Hall.

On the second floor, where preside Dean Johnson and Mr. Linton, are the labs for drug assay, food analysis and prescription practice.

In spite of their distance from the campus hub, the druggists manage to be heard now and then at bomb-making season, and have even been known to break into bold red type in the middle of a calm night.

typi in the middle of a calm night. Bagley Hall is three tiers tall, free-bagley Hall is three tiers tall, free-bagley Hall in the peeping over the great property. There, in acid eaten garb, the "alf and 'afte' jurgle fragile tubes of poison; with calm fortitude they analyze deadly tunes and tamp the high explosives. Scorched eyelasties and rigged fingers they scarcely notice. In fact the only thing that does and it is said that some can even maintain composure at the appearance of a blue book.

In a model prescription pharmacy toil the "curers or killers" of man. How do they know what plants are poison and which are good for pills and soap? Samples of bottled, dried, crude and refued, drugs, commercial and biological products by the hundreds line the shelves of the materia medica room. And there has been selected by the best being been specimens, medicinal piants, growing in an artistic and harmless looking garden, supervised and managed by Mr. James Thompson, specialist from the Bureau of Plant partners of Arriculture.

More than five acres does this garden cover with its digitalis field, its peppermint, and a host of other plants only a pharmacist would dare attempt to remember. The aim of this intensive work on the part of the government and the university is to cultivate medicinal plants on a commercial scale. Quantities of digitalis were produced in this garden last year, and shipped for war uses. A new field house and a co-operative green house have also sprung up since Mr. Thompson's arrival.

So important has been the work of the College of Pharmacy in the recent war that research and experimentation have been quickened, a greater interest has been created commercially, and many more men and women are entering the field. Of the many who let the department to enter the service, practically all users into some branch of the useful. Oreat as was their need in time of war, still greater is that need in time of pace, and the rapid expansion of the College of Pharmacy is proof of that realization.

School Of Law

"Assault and battery, broken jaw, We're the boys of the Washington law."

W E knew it well, when the curtain rose on the first nominating assembly of the year, that the School of Law had come back to life. It was a mere handful of students sitting about the wielders of the bow that produced mournful sounds on the bass viol, but that handful represented the mightly laws reasserting themselves as the "cream of the school." If brought us back to the days when such an assembly was incomplete without the bass drum in the hands of Ed Franklin seconding every nomination or punctuating each sentence.

It was a real rejuvenation, too. It happened that the greater percentage of those who were fortunate enough to get an early discharge from the service consisted of lawyers, which was accounted for, perhaps, by their talking ability. The new home on the top floor of Commerce Hall awaited them. While there were only twelve students enrolled in the department during the war, conditions were almost normal at the beginning of the third quarter of 1919.

Picking up the old tradition of senior law canes is accredited to the men that came back after their term of service. The mustaches that usually went with these sticks were not fortheoming, however, and it is runnored that nature would not have it thus with this class. At any rate, the senior law feels lost without his cane, and the mabogany stick with the white initials and the letters "Senior Law, 1919," is his most prized possession.

There were more women in the School of Law in 1919 than at any previous time. Almost two dozen members of the female sex aspired to become upholders of our legal statutes, and indications point to an increase next year. The department organizations became active and the Washington Law Association began a brilliant career. The honor fraternities Phi Delta Phi, Phi Alpha Delta and Phi Delta Polta also resumed their activity.

Harvey Lantz

The law library is now the most complete in the Northwest and proves a popular place for study. The moot court room, too, provides realism to the procedure classes and to the mock trials held by the embryo lawyers. The north entrance to Commerce Hall has been appropriated by the cane carriers, and between classes the men make a rush for these steps, even as the A. B.'s seck out the approach to Denny Hall.

The law department has been exceedingly fortunate in the retaining of its faculty, which, with the exception of the loss of Leslie J. Ayer, has been intact for a number of years.

College Of Engineering

THE College of Engineering was one of the earliest in the university to return to a pre-war basis, and is at present offering all of the regular courses of normal times. A detailed study of curricula and courses was made by the engineering faculty in 1916 and 1917, and the changes made then, as a result of their investigations, are now being made in the engineering schools throughout the country. Students at present are being given an opportunity to elect courses during their senior year on a much more liberal scale than heretofore. Several new courses are being planned for the fall quarter that will greatly broaden the scope of the college.

Perhaps the most unique departure from the old order will be in the offering of a course in aeronautical engineering. A completely equipped aeronautical laboratory, a gift to the University from Mr. Boeing, is rapidly nearing completion and will be placed at the disposal of the students by the commencement of the new school year.

A large quantity of thoroughly np-to-date equipment has been ordered for the radio department and will be installed immediately.

Additional attention will also be given to marine engineering and naval architecture. The University of Washington is ideally situated for the handling of this important subject, and extensive equipment for the development of the work is already at hand,

A new hydraulic laboratory, for the use of the department of hydraulic engineering, will be constructed during the summer. When it is understood that sixteen per cent of the total water power of the nation is in this state, and that ten per cent of the total water power of the United States is within one hundred miles of the University of Washington, something of the enormous possibilities along this line will be realized.

College Of Mines

Mines Seniors

IT is interesting to note, in tracing the history of the various colleges of the University, the phenomenal development which has taken place in the College of Mines. From the meagre beginning of simple instruction in fire assaying, to its present position as one of the leading centers of instruction for mining engineers to be found in this country, all in the brief space of twenty-three years, is a record of true western spirit of which Washington may well be proud. And it is doubly gratifying to observe that this college is not content to rest on the laurels of its past achievements alone, but contemplates still further development,

In conjunction with the reconstruction policy of the University at large, a chair in ceramics has been established in the mining department, and with the arrival of the necessary equipment, full instruction in the development of the clay resources of the Northwest will be obtainable at the University of Washington.

Increased growth in the number of the students and the broadening of the scope of the curricula has caused the College of Mines to outgrow its present quarters, but with the practical assurance that the Mines group, located southwest of the present Engineering hall, is one of the next groups of buildings to be placed under construction, this difficulty will be remedied and the future will be clear for an even greater mining department at Washington.

Scaling.

PERHAPS no single incident is a better example of the great development which has taken place in the forestry department than the action taken this year by the Board of Regents inchanging the name of this college from the College of Forestry to the College of Forestry and Lumbering. With this change the Unit versity of Washington becomes the only college in the country that is offering complete courses in both of these phases of forest work. Only one other college offers work approaching that of the local school in character, and the scope of the work at that institution is by no means as complete or of as comprehensive a nature as the course here.

The forestry department handled the military topography instruction given to the Student Army Training Corps unit that was located on the campus, and also carried on special investigations in connection with the wooden shipbuilding construction and airplane program of the national government.

Regnlar work in the forestry department was greatly broken up during the war; in fact, none of the usual forestry courses were offered except for a few upper-classmen, who were ineligible for military service because of nationality or physical incapacity. But with the resumption of normal activities, conditions are rapidly reverting to their previous status, and all courses will be placed on their former basis by the time college reopens in the fall.

The Grieg Statue

Dooking North from Methy Steps

ROM every opening of Meany Hall comes a positive declaration, either by way of voice, piano, violin, or orchestra! With each declaration in a different key, the result is alarming. An investigation will prove, however, that there is nothing wrong, that, indeed, on the contrary, everything is quite right, and a trip through the different departments will soon correct first impressions.

Yes, that is the dean of the College, Irving M. Glen. Do you imagine that his face could wear such a smilingly kind look if everything were avry, or that he would meet with such keen interest and response in his direction of "chorus" if his students had not unanimously voted him "some dean?" And in this room is a class in sight singing under the direction of Miss Frances Dickey. One can hardly imagine students singing little children's songs as solos, and enjoying the activity, but they do nevertheless, and can even render "Mary Had a Little Lamb" in the most appealing style.

Mrs. Louise Van Ogie, with her unfailing interest in "little tests and drills," see her classes in fundamentals very much awake. Mr. A Venino has this room as his studio, and is an expert at teaching fingers to curve, and wrists and arms to obey commands. Mr. Morits Rosen and his bevy of young virtnoss of the violin keep things hamonions and melodious in their section of the "House of Music."

Tucked away in this small corner is the place where theory and harmony are put into practice, and real "young compositions" spring into existence, under the direction of Mr. Carl Paige Wood. The noise from upstains? Mr. Adams and his band going over some of their repertoire. They have no trouble in making themselves heard. On the whole, the family is quite complete, and though they are a trifle noisy, the sight-seer will agree that it is in a good cause.

Library School

The "Libe"

IF there's anything in shades of the departed, we ought to hear faint strains of orchestras, the tinkle of silver and laughter unbecoming in this great gray structure, half hidden in trees, frequented by those with insatiable curiosity. That most familiar building was erected for a social hall ten years ago. In 1913 it gave up four of its banquet rooms to a small group of faculty who promised to teach their students to sneak around on flat-hecled shoes, to speak but seldom and to laugh never. So the Library School began.

William Elmer Henry, director of the school, who is thirteen years old, college reckoning, appropriated the sunny office on the right (as you enter) and its twin on the other side was initiated as a catalog room, almost as private and mysterious. The two rooms just above these were fitted up for lecture and study.

Out of six graduating classes averaging twelve students a year since 1913, but one man has "seen it through." Library work is essentially for women. Owing to woman's ability to handle detail, she has practically no competition in this field, but, almost without exception, the administrative positions are held by men.

The library student must be under thirty and absolutely sound, mentally and physically. No others need apply. Charles W. Smith, Mabel Ashley and Evelyn Blodgett train the L. E.'s to read shelves, to relearn decimals and manufacture books. Dean Henry then finishes them off in library policy and organization, extension and administration. The student must spend 420 hours in experiment upon the public, and if all survive she may get one—or maybe more—of three degrees: B. S. if she has tarried at Science Hall a while, A. B. if Denny claimed an hour of two of her time, or B. of L. E. if she has not strayed from the fold.

College Of Science

Trevor Kincaid at Work

N the days when Denny Hall was the University of Washington, one man guided the destiny of what was to become one of the largest colleges on the campus. It was said of him that he did not occupy a chair, but a settee, for he taught biology, geology, and chemistry.

About this time, to be exact, in 1895, there I also a considered as the eleventh unember of the faculty. At present, in a faculty of 250, Dean Landes has the honor of having been the longest in service, and he is the only one remaining of the original eleven.

As the number of students increased and new members of the faculty were added each year, the variety of work became greater. It was found desirable to divide the university into colleges and schools. The College of Liberal Arts was one of the first to be created. This college graw with extraordinary rapidity. There were many diverse interests, and it soon became necessary to subdivide the college into three divisions. So it was in 1903 that the College of Science was actually created.

It was evident, too, that the College of Science must have a home. While numerous colleges were being created, students were also increasing and this department was receiving its full share. In 1907 Science Hall was built, a red brick building located south of Denny Hall. At intervals since then it has been retouched with coats of gray paint.

The war took large numbers of students, and faculty, too, but it stimulated thought and action along scientific lines. It quickened research work, and investigations in new fields have been carried on extensively. One of the innovations that it has brought to the eampus was the nursing course. Next year the college will take on a normal aspect, and with a complete faculty and a larger enrollment it will continue to hold its place as one of the foremost colleges of the University.

School Of Journalism

I T was something of a magic touch, the transformation around the journalism abode at the beginning of the second college quarter. With the signing of the armistice, those who were at their studies and those who were eating their "chow" from army mess halls saw visious of the "old gang" back at the Daily shack. Memories of the good times in the old tumble-down shelter known as the Education building never left the scribes, and a sort of call-of-the-North feeling brought many back to their alma mater.

A new building welcomed those who had been fighting with the colors and somewhat of a new atmosphere prevailed. The spacious quarters of the School of Journalism exceeded all expectations, a trip through Pa Kennedy's shop assured them of the completeness and modernity of the new plant, and a sprinkling of old faces and words of welcome soon made the newcomers feel at home. Of course, one of the first features that eaptivated the returning student was the omnipresence of the feminine sex. Women at the typewriters, at the desk, and even in the composing room. Unbelievable, to those who remembered when a female around the editor's desk was unheard of.

with the exception of a sweet society reporter and her assistant. And the women put it over, too, for the entire staff on the first semester's Daily was composed of their sex, with the exception of one man, Loren Milliman, a frosh who stuck by the ship in that sea of femininity. Too much credit eau not be awarded Florence Logan, the first woman editor of the Daily in the history of the University of Washington, who has the distinction of piloting the official A. S. U. W. publication through a most successful career in a period of strife and unrest.

With the second quarter came the stronger sex to rule. Frank Davies, as editor of the Daily, rearranged the editorial office into a typical metropolitan news room. The staff was departmentalized to a greater extent than ever before in the history of the Daily, and each head was given a desk. Davies first published a morning Daily, and would have pursued this policy had not this plan been rendered infeasible by conditions in the mechanical department.

The journalism quarters never cease to be a popular rendezvous of the campus. Besides the never ending string of students looking for copies of the Daily, seeking information, and craving publicity, many come to gossip or read "Jane," the newsy bulletin board, of which the postoffice department has proved a popular feature.

A consideration of the School of Journalism would be incomplete without mention of the library and file room. In the former, the latest books relative to the profession are to be found, and in the file room are copies of the leading publications of the state and nation. The faculty includes Miss Grace Edgington, Fred Kennedy, Frederick A. Russell, Frank Goss and Colin V. Dyment, who will again be active in the department in the fall quarter.

College Of Business Administration

THE College of Business Administration is a professional school which aims to train its students to meet the problems of modern industry. With the return of many men from active service, the registration increased from 139 in the first quarter to 391 in the second and 421 in the third quarters. This reflects the great interest in the study of modern business problems, organization, and management. To meet these needs and to further expand the activity of the School of Business Administration, ten faculty men will teach a total of 110 courses throughout the coming college year.

The creation of the Bureau of Advisory Boards has been started with the organization of the Foreign Trade Board and the Merchant Marine Board. Each board will consist of fifteen leading men of the state, who will co-operate with the faculty in making the courses meet actual business needs and in acquainting the students with community leaders and their views and to bring about a greater spirit of co-operation. Arrangements are under way to organize boards for the following departments: Transportation, banking, marketing, seeretarial training, employment management, commercial teaching, business organization, accounting, statistics, and taxation. Apprenticeships for seniors, whereby they may gain practical experience while attending school, will be undertaken with the sid of the advisory boards.

Plans are under way to bring twenty stadents from China each year and to send to the Orient from eight to ten Washington men. Professor De Ilaas will be exchange professor at the University of Rotterdam, one of the three foremost schools of commerce in Europe, and will be absent for one year. This is a distinction to the Washington School of Business Administration, in that it has an authority on foreign trade desired by the best universities in Europe.

The College of Business Administration has been active in solving many industrial problems, by conducting a large number of surveys, assisting in wage awards and conducting five cost of living surveys, two of which have been brought down to date. The wage plan for municipal employes, as prepared by Stephen I. Miller, director of the school, was accepted by the city council. This plan provides for a system of grades and promotions and bases the wage on the cost of living. The industrial survey of Scattle, which was undertaken in co-operation with the Scattle Chamber of Commerce and the chemistry department, was recently completed.

This college acts as a research clearing house for the State of Washington Reconstruction Congress. Arrangements have been completed to make a tour of the leading cities in the state for purposes of an industrial survey. A research associate is constantly at work on research problems.

Beta Gamma Sigma, honorary scholastic commerce fraterrity, stands for the profession of business, for higher ideals and honesty in business relations. Its aims are to raise the scholastic standard of the commerce students and to create a co-operative spirit. Phi Sigma Chi, honorary professional commerce sorority, aims to instill co-operation on the part of women students. It requires a high standard of scholarship and adaptability.

College Of Liberal Arts

Shell in Front of Denny Helping to "Send 'em South"

THE Liberal Arts quadrangle, though it eensists of three distinct units, to most students means Denny Hall, the center of eoliege and the "coffee grinder". Everybody knows David S. Thomson, the genial, kindly dean of the college. He is the first aid to the wondering freshman, to the puzzled upper-classman who hears of the junior certificate for the first time, to the tallen one who desires to be reinstated and given just one more chance.

Under the clock in Denny is a favorite trysting place, and at 9 and 10 o'clock the "coffee grinder" begins to move, and the laughing, pushing crowd sways hack and forth, hurrying in to classes or out for air or an appointment on the steps. Above the hubbub one can hear an oceanional T. L. Dassed back and forth. an important meeting announced, or a hurried "date" planned.

The work of the College of Liberal Arts is divided into two groups: (1) The classical language and literature group, comprising the departments of English, German, Oriental literature, Romanie literature and language, Russian and Scandinavian; (2) the philosophical group, comprising the departments of economies, history, philosophy, political science, and sociology. In late years a College of Education has been founded, and its work is carried on in the Home Economies Hall, the second unit of the Liberal Arts quadrangle, which was first occupied in September, 1916. The College of Business Administration holds forth with the sehools of journalism and law in Commerce Hall, the third unit of the quadrangle, which was first occupied in September, 1917. The fourth unit is the new Philosophy Hall, bids for which have already been received, and which will be erected next fall.

The work is so divided that there are three stages in a student's progress:

(1) Graduation from high school; (2) obtaining the junior certificate upon completion of the first two years in the University; (3) graduation from the University.

The installation of the junior certificate requirement is new. It has proved successful, as is evidenced by an article in the Fifteenth Biennial Report of the Board of Regents to the Governor of Washington. There the purpose of the jimior certificate is stated as "to more closely articulate the work of the high school with that of the College of Libberal Arts and Sciences." It is required for regular entrance to professional courses as law, library economy, and journalism. One advantage of the plan is that since the work of the lower division must be completed before that of the upper begins, members of the same class have had the same amount of preparation for subjects, and therefore seniors are rarely found in classes with freshmen or sophomorous

There was considerable decrease and increase in some of the departments of the college during the period of the war. One of the most remarkable decreases in attendance was in the German department. In the autumn of 1918 and 1919, only one teacher, instead of seven, as was the case two years ago, was needed. The German department, too, was moved to Home Economies Hall. The number of those in French classes, however, increased from 547 to 838, and in political science and social sociology from 387 to 459. Spanish classes show a decrease from 547 to 350. History classes number 508 in 1918, as compared with 1,105 in 1917. Oriental language, public speaking, philosophy, Scandiavian, all show a decrease in numbers. There were 1,421 enrolled in English courses in 1916 and 1917, and only 930 the first quarter of 1917 and 1918.

Census figures, compiled by the president's office, show that in the autumn quarter of 1918 and 1919 there were 57 men and 463 women enrolled in the College of Liberal Arts, a total of 550. During the winter quarter there were 721 in all—212 men and 509 women.

Breaking Ground for Philosophy Hall

College Of Education

The Home of the College

N January 1, 1913, the Board of Regents, on unanimous recommendation of the University faculty, established the School of Education. After working under that name for two years, because of rapid expansion it became the College of Education in December, 1914. At the beginning of the academic year 1916-1917, the College of Education, "a relie of the Alaska-Yukon-Pacific Exposition, to its present quarters in Home Economics Hall.

The College of Education aims to meet the real need for the training of teachers in the state of Washington and in the Northwest, and sets a high standard for the teaching service. Its purpose is to bring together and correlate all the forces of the University which contribute in a professional way to the preparation of superior teachers and other educational leaders.

The curviculum of the college is based on the assumption that teachers must have fundamentally a broad and liberal education, that their training should be supplemented by professional education which gives a knowledge of the problems to be met, and that they should be masters of some special subject they expect to teach. It is fitted to provide teachers of twelve different types: high school teachers, high school principals, superintendents of public schools, grammar school principals, supervisors of primary schools, supervisors and teachers of music, drawing, manual and industrial arts, normal school and college instructors in education, experts in educational research, specialists in the education of defectives, playground directors, Y. M. and Y. W. C. A. teachers and workers, invenile court workers.

Besides the regular work of the College of Education in connection with the University, Saturday and evening classes are maintained to accommodate the teachers of Scattle and vicinity. During the last year, about a hundred teachers have registered in the various classes.

The University also maintains an appointment committee for the purpose of saisiting teachers to secure desirable positions. Frederick E. Bolton, dean of the College of Education, is chairman of the committee.

College Of Fisheries

A Day's Catch

IN four years the University of Washington will have the distinction of graduating the first students from the only College of Fisheries, not only in the United States, but in the whole world outside of Japan. The numerous and extensive fishing and canning operations in and around Seattle, and the nearness of Alaska and Pacific coast fisheries, make this an ideal soot for such a college.

The germ of the idea came from Dr. H. M. Smith, United States Commissioner of Fisheries, who was theroughly familiar with the work of the fisheries school of Japan and wished to develop something of the kind in this country. When he broached the subject to the University of Washington administration he met with a most sympathetic audience, and if the war had not interfered the college would now be four years old instead of one.

John N. Cobb, for twenty-four years intimately connected with the economic fisheries of the United States, has been selected as professor of fisheries and director of the college. Mr. Cobb was field agent of the United States Bureau of Fisheries for fourteen years. During that time he wrote many extensive reports on fisheries in the United States, Alaska, the Hawaiian Islands, Canada, and Mexico, which were published by the government. After resigning from the government service he was for four years editor of the Pacific Fisherman of Seattle. Some of his books on certain fisheries are the only works of their kind in existence, and are being used as text books.

The college offers a four-year currieulum covering the biology, technology, fish culture and business management of fisheries. As there is a great demand today for trained men in canneries, cold storage plants, smoke houses and fertilizer and oil plants, the technological and ceonomical courses are popular.

In Holy Communion

Blood of our Savier Sauctified to us Shed for us all On the cross, on Golgotha, In holy communion We reverently take it And solmenly, fervently, Drink we all of it.

Body of Jesus, Given for sinners' Remission of sins On the cross, on Golgotha, In holy communion We reverently break it Solemnly, humbly, Remembering Thee! O merciful Savior! Savior of saviors, We pray thee to look On these saviors of men, Crucified for us On war's vast Golgotha Their blood they shed For our final salvation!

Blood of our saviors, Sanctified to us, Shed for us all On the red field of war, In holy communion We reverently take it And solemnly, fervently, Drink we all of it.

Washington's Gold Stars

Licut. Elmer J. Noble

"You bet I will." The zero hour had struck. The 36th Infantry of the "Wild West" was "going in." Striding along with chin set, Lieut. Elmer John Noble, '17, called this assurance as he led the men of Company D by a narrow passage through barb wire entanglements into places for moping up the Bois de Cheppy. Through the litting fog the heads of the men were espied by the Boche. A shell from a cannon plowed through the line, and "Cy" Noble had "gone West."

In the words of Lieut. Colin V. Dyment, "there was dreadful fighting all the next day, and the day after, and the day after, but up at the front in the midst of it all, officers of every regiment had time to ask one another, 'Did you hear Cy Noble was killed?' I suppose if a man must die, he couldn't want much more than that."

Noble received a commission as first licutenant at the first Officers' Training School at the Presidio, August, 1917. He was ordered to Fort Sill for instruction in bayonet work, and then to Camp Lewis with the 91st Division. He was placed on special duty as baynot instructor for the division and attached to the general staff. He went overseas in command of his company D, of the 364th Infantry, July 11, 1918.

For four years on Dobie's eleven, Noble won national fame as hard plunging right half. He was considered one of the ablest athletes turned out by the famous football wizard. He majored in commerce and was a member of Sigma Nu fraternity, Oval Club, upper classmen's honorary society, and Fir Tree, senior men's honorary society. In August, 1917, he was married to Doris Smith, ex-'18, a member of Kappa Kappa Gamma sorority.

44 B ILL' MACDONALD entered the University as a sophomore in 1913. He had previously been a year at Annapolis. He entered the Law School in '14, and received his deerve in '17.

He enlisted in Company A, Second Washington, in 1916, when the Mexican trouble developed, and went with the regiment to Calexico. After his return in the fall of '16 he was promoted to corporal, and when war was declared was selected by his captain as one of two men from the company for the first Officers' Training Camp at the Presidio. Upon completion of his work there he was commissioned second lieutenant and assigned to the 364th Infantry at Camp Lewis, In December, '17, "Bill" was transferred to his old regiment, now the 161st, and sent to France. He was on training duty and attending Corps School until July. '18, when he was promoted to first lieutenant, and at his own request assigned to a combat unit, Company I, 167th Infantry, 42nd (Rainbow) Division. He was with his regiment in the Argonne, and was killed on October 14th, while attacking the Cote de Chatilon. Early in the attack he received a bad shrapnel would in the leg, but went on with his men to his second objective.

Lieut, William J. A.

When his platoon was established "Bill" started to crawl back to a dressing station. He had gone but a short distance when a shell fell near him, and he was instantly killed. Three days later the chaplain of his regiment found his body, and he is buried, on the north side of the Cote de Chatilon with three of his men who were lying near him.

He was a member of Kappa Sigma, Phi Delta Phi, honor law frateruity, and Oval Club, a "Big W" man, and track captain in 1917. He won his athletic honors in the mile and two-mile.

William J. A. Macdonald was the son of Dr. and Mrs. Alexander Macdonald, of Chatfield, Minnesota. His home in this city was with his uncle and aunt, Mr. and Mrs. Frank A. Steele. In April, 1917, he married Miss Helen Bain, a University girl, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. David Bain, 1126 31st Avenue. Seattle.

In honor of "Bill," one of the University athletic fields has been named "Macdonald Field."

Lieut, Nicholas Comeford Healy

A BATTLE with pneumonia, as a transport loaded with Yanks speeded homeward, was lost shortly efter the ship reached Newport News, Feb. James M. Eagleson, 17, turned to gold. Major James B. Eagleson, father of the young officer, was crossing the Atlantic at the same time. He was notified by wireless and sneeceded in reaching his son just before his death. "Jimmie" Eagleson attended the first Officers' Training School at the Presidio, and was graduated with commission of second lieutenant. He was attached to the 69th Artilley at Fort Casey, where he was promoted to first lieutenant. In July, 1918, he accompanied his unit abroad.

In college Eagleson served a term as yell king. He was a consistent members of the basketball squad and won an honor "W." He was senior football manager. He became affiliated with Fir Tree, senior men's honorary society. Pi Mr. Chi, premedic honorary fraternity, and Phi Gamma Delta fraternity.

NICHOLAS COMEFORD HEALY, '20, lost his life in an airplane accident at La Golla, while flying from Rockwell Field, May 3, 1918. He enlisted November, 1917, in the aviation section of the Signal Corps. Being sent to the aviation school at Berkeley early in 1918, he graduated from there March 9, 1918, and was sent to Rockwell Field at San Diego. Healy was a sophomore in college at the time of his withdrawal. His major subject was law. He made his home at 713 Sixteenth Avenue North. Seattle.

Capt. Wilfred Lewis

ROM those of the faculty and administrative officers of the University in service, the toll of war took Capt. Wilfred Lewis, formerly superinteduct of buildings and grounds. Capt. Lewis was supply officer with the 91st Division. He succumbed to pneumonia February 10, 1919, in a hospital twenty-seven miles southeast of Paris.

Graduating from the University of Illinois in 1907 as civil engineer, he later removed to Seattle, where he engaged in construction and regrade work. Following this he served for four years as general secretary for the campus Y. M. C. A. Then the University retained him as superintendent of buildings and grounds. During his years of work in Seattle as an engineer, he was constantly engaged in boys' club work, and this constituted the effort of his life, in which he took the greatest pleasure and pride. Many is the Seattle young man today who dates his real start in life as a boy to the influence of Wilfred Lewis. On the campus he was known as a sweet singer, who used his art unsparingly and gratuitously to aid the Glee Club and University operas.

Early in the war a brother, Major John Lewis, lost his life with the Canadians at the Somme. From that day Capt. Lewis never rested till he was in service. He enlisted at the declaration of war, but was held in construction work a Camp Lewis until made supply officer with the 91st.

HEER up, Harp; we'll get the kaiser yet!" Hardly were these words spoken when the lifeboat bearing Roy Muncaster, '17, from the torpedoed Tuscania, struck the rocky shoals off the Island of Islay, Scotand lies buried at Port Ellen, Islay, Scotland.

Roy Muneaster graduated from the School of Forestry and onlisted with the 20th Engineers, November, 1917. In college he was active in athletics, particularly boxing and football. He was president of the Boxing Glub and participated in class bouts. He was affiliated with Phi Gamma Delta fraternity. His home address was 1460 Corona Avenne, Denver, Olorado.

Lieut, Arthur Edward Carlson

Licut. Donald R. Brogon

EADING his men across a shell swept ridge, in the Argonne Forest, Arthur Edward Carlson, '18, lieutenant in the 91st Division, was struck by a high explosive September 29, 1918, adding a paragraph to the deathless Iame of the "Wild West" and sharing the glory of its citation for bravery.

In the University Lient. Carlson majored in electrical engineering and became affiliated with Acacia Fraternity.

He entered the Second Officers' Training Camp at the Presidio, August, 1917. He won a commission as second lieutenant and reported at Camp Lewis, where he was attached to the 347th Machine Gun Company. His company left for its embarkation port Jinne 22, 1918, as part of the 91st Division.

Papers of promotion to a first lientenancy came through shortly after Carlson lost his life. The scene of his death is in the vicinity of Verdun, near Mountfaucon France.

Lieutenant Carlson made his home in Anaeortes, in which place his wife and parents are now residing.

He-had received its countries of service with the Tenth Engineeers (Forestry), Lieut. Donald R. Broxon lost his life in a railroad wreek. December 5, 1918, between Paris and Tours, while en route for home. He-had received his commission but a short time before the accident. His unit was among the first American organizations to see overseas duty.

Lient. Broxon entered the University from the University of California in 1914. He graduated with an M. A. degree in forestry in 1916. He was a member of Fi Tau Upsilon fraternity, Xi Sigma Pi, honorary forestry fraternity, and the Forestry Club. He served as president of the Idaho Club and was active in class football. Lieut. Broxon enlisted immediately upon the outbreak of the war. His home was in Boise, Idaho.

Chester W. Wilson

Jeannette Virginia Barrows

A FTER serving with the University of Washington Ambulance Corps, Section 571, through the perilons days of the big Italian push, without a scratch, Chester W. Wilson, '19, was killed in an accident, Jan. 15, 1919, in Italy. Wilson enlisted when the ambulance corps was first organized on the campus. He went through a long training period at Allentown, and finally was rewarded by service in Italy. In college Wilson majored in journalism. He showed marked enthusiam for his profession and early won a place on the staff of the Daily. He was a member of Delta Upsilon fraternity. His home was in Arlington, Washington.

THE one gold star on the service flag of the women of the University is for Jeannette Virginia Barrows, '18, who died of pneumonia while enlisted as reconstruction aide at Fort Snelling, Minnesota, March 15, 1919. "Taps" was sounded for Miss Barrows, and she was buried with full military lonors. Miss Barrows entered the University from Bellingham Normal School. In college she majored in sociology. She became affiliated with Alpha Delta Pi sorority. After graduating in June, 1918, Miss Barrows spent the summer at Reed College, Portland, in training for the work of reconstruction aide. She was sworn into United States service October 24, 1918. While in New York waiting overseas orders the armistice was signed. A month later she was ordered to United States Army General Hospital No. 29, to assist in the care of the wounded returned from France. She died after an illness of only four days.

LLED in action" is the record which the War Department has placed opposite the name of Merle W. O'Rear, '18, corporal, Company A, 161st U. S. Infantry. He met his death while convoying supplies to the front by being knocked from a train as it was passing through a tunucl, July 12, 191s

Corporal O'Rear entered the University in the fall of 1914, at the same time enlisting in the University company of the National Guards. At the time of the Mexican trouble he accompanied the regiment to Calexico. His major subject in college was mechanical engineering, and he turned out for tennis and basketball.

When Company F was mustered out after the summer at Calexieo, O'Rear re-enlisted in Company A, which became part of the 161st. He arrived in France on his twenty-first birthday, December 29, 1917. He was entrusted with important details in the work of convoying. The day before his death he took a train into German territory in Loraine.

Corporal O'Rear is buried at Is Sur Tille, France, Grave No. 4. He made his home with his parents at 1211 Fourth Avenue West, Seattle.

A NOTHER Washington man to succumb to pucumonia was Charles Norman Fletcher, 20, who served with Base Hospital No. 50. He died in Irea de Company of the Section 1, 1918. Fletcher interrupted his sophomore your in college to cultist in December, 1917, but before his departure he was elected to Tyes Tyon, sophomore honor society. He was affiliated with Kappa Signa fraternity and majored in the college of business administration. At the time of his death Fletcher held the position of wardmaster. He lived with his parents at 2808 Seventeenth Avenue Northeast, Seattle.

Samuel Parker

W. C. Morchouse

AVING tried in vain to enlist in a dozen different fighting units, Samuel Parker, '19, did the next best thing and applied for a place in Base Hospital Unit No. 50. He was accepted, and in a few months was seeing service in one of the largest hospitals in France. Having exhausted his energy in alleviating the suffering caused by a diphtheria epidemic which raged in the town of Nievre, he contracted the disease and died after a short illness, September 7, 1918.

In college Parker majored in journalism. He worked on The Daily, from reporter up to high editorial positions. A few months before his enlistment he left college to take a position on the news staff of the Seattle Post-Intelligencer, where his work was highly esteemed by experienced newspaper men. Parker was a member of Pi Tan Upsilon fraternity and Sigma Delta Chi, national honorary journalism fraternity.

TAVING participated in the last big Italian drive which brought about the collapse of Austria, Wilmot Charles Morehouse, '19, was accidentally killed at Mestre, Italy, February 13, 1919. He was connected with the University of Washington Ambulance Corps and drove an ambulance at the front during the big offensive.

Morehouse enlisted in the ambulance corps when it was organized in April, 1917. He was with the unit during its stay at Allentown and was sent with it to Italy in June, 1918. At the University he was enrolled as a pre-medic student. He lived with his parents at 1822 East Fifty-fifth Street, Seattle.

IS coveted commission as licutenant in the marine aviation corps arrived just three days after James R. Ristine, Jr., '21, lost his life in an aeroplane accident, November 13, 1918, at Miami, Florida. He was flying at a height of 200 feet, when his machine went into a spin and erashed to the ground.

Risting left the University during his first year. However, he made the freshman football squad and became a member of Phi Kappa Psi fraternity.

He was one of four students from the University to pass the stiff marine aviation examinations. In his training work he graduated among the highest in his class at Massachusetts Institute of Technology, where he took his ground instruction.

Ristine's former home was at Joplin, Missouri. He was 19 years of age at the time of his death.

Lieut, Harold White

CROSS-STATE flight in the interest of the Fourth Liberty Loan is considered the indirect cause of the death of Harold Clarence White, '20, lieutenant, A. S. A. He was attacked by pneumonia a few days after the patriotic exhibition, and died October 16, 1918, at Wilbur Wright Aviation Field, Fairfield, Ohio.

Lieutenaut White entered the army with the same spirit he had shown in college, and his progress was correspondingly rapid. He had reached a first sergeancy, when he was appointed to the Ground School Officers' Reserve. Graduating with honor, he received his commission as second lieutenant June 15, 1918, and was ordered to Wilbur Wright Field. Here he was instructor in duel cross country flights and later served as test pilot in the Proving Squadron. His unit was the 20th Aero Squadron. Before his enlistment, May 4, 1917, Lieutenaut White became popular in college as yell leader of his class. He was an enthusiastic track aspirant, but left the campus before the big meets were held. He was affiliated with Phi Gamma Delta fraternity. His major was business administration.

Lientenant White lived with his parents at 1132 Forty-first Avenue North, Seattle.

THE "English Camels" became famous as the scout patrol that performed with skill and daring the most dangerous scouting duties. While serving as a pilot in this unit of the "eyes" of the Allies William Renolds Cutler, '19, known to his friends as "Billy" Cutler, lost his life through a fall, in No-wember, 1917. His military eareer was short but Enlisting in the Royal Air Force at Toronto early in May, 1917, he was sent to England to complete his training in the Royal Flying Corps. He received a commission as second lieutenant and was sent to the front.

In the University Billy Cutler was enrolled in the department of chemical engineering. He was affiliated with Sigma Chi fraternity. His home was in Victoria, British Columbia.

Lieut. Claire Kinney

Lieut. William R. Cutler

The Office attraordinary heroism in battle, the Distinguished Service Cross was awarded Archur Claire Rawson Kinney, '17, of the United States Air Service. While frying in the region of Doulson, Brieulles Romange and Amereville, he was wounded October 4, 1918, one bullet passing through his leg and several lodging in his body. From these wounds he died the same day in hospital at Stenay.

Kinney enlisted immediately upon the declaration of war. In May, 1917, he was appointed to the Presidio for the First Officers' Training School. He then transferred to the air service and was stationed at the field at Berkeley. Sent to France to finish his training, advanced to front early in [all of 1918.

At the time of his withdrawal from college Kinney was a senior in the College of Fine Arts. He was interested in aquatics and was a member of the Yarsity Boat Club. He made his home at Endieott, Washington.

Alfred Clarence Hoiby

Licut, Earl M. Hoisington

W. HILLS serving on guard duty in Montana for the protection of that state during the unsettled conditions following the dispatch of the Montana Guards overseas, Alfred Clarence Holby, 128, corporal in Seventh Company, Washington Coast Artillery, succumbed to pleuro-pneumonia, December 10, 1917.

Hoby enlisted upon the declaration of war, near the end of his third year in to University. He was in training at a Sound fort until his unit was sent to Montana. In college he was interested in sports, turning out for basketball and erew. Hoby majored in liberal arts preparatory to taking law. He made his home with his parents at 1909 Minor Avenue, Seattle.

O honor his interest and enthusiasm in fulfilling his duties, the posthumous rank of eaptain was conferred upon Earl M. Hoisington, '18, who died at Rockwell Field, California, of double pneumonia, November 10, 1918.

Lieutenant Hoisington reported to the Second Officers' Training Camp at the Presidio, in August, 1917. At the close of the course he was commissioned first lieutenant of infantry and ordered to Camp Lewis. He later transferred to aviation, being one of the few who made this clange without ent in rank. After ground work at Austin, Texas, he took flight work at Rockwell, Otay Miss and Oneonta Fields. In July, 1918, he was made chief instructor of aerial gunnery. Influenza, following an aecident while hunting, settled in his langs and developed into double pneumonia.

On the campus Lieutenant Hoisington was active in Y. M. C. A. work. He majored in business administration, and was affiliated with Sigma Alpha Ensilon fraternity. His home was in Spokane. Washington.

Frank H. Hubbard

John Henry Martin

A MONG the first of Washington's sons to rest in the bosom of France, having paid the supreme saorifice for liberty, was Frank Harold Hubbard, '20, corporal in Company L, 161st United States Infantry. He died in Base Hospital No. 9, Chateauroux, Indre, France, January 27, 1918, from searlet fever.

Corporal Hubbard served on the Mexican border with the Second Washington during the summer of 1916. Upon the declaration of war he was again called into service. After a period of training, his unit left Camp Mills, New York, about December 14, 1917, and landed in France the first day of 1918. He is buried in the American plot of the cemetery at Chateauroux.

In college Hubbard specialized in chemistry and pharmacy. He was a pledge of Sigma Nu fraternity. His home was at 7200 Woodlawn Avenue, Seattle.

THE influenza epidemic gilded another star on the University's great service flag when it carried off John Henry Martin, '16, sergeant in Ambulance Company No. 11. He was stationed with his unit at Camp Fremont, California, at the time of the scource, and died there October 17, 1918.

While in college Sergeant Martin majored in chemistry. He was affiliated with Alpha Tau Omega fraternity. He culisted May 19, 1917, among the first from the University to answer the martial call. Sergeant Martin made his home with his mother at 1922 Summit Avenue, Seattle.

T was Sunday morning in the Argonne, There was a gap to the left of the "Wild West" section. Two companies of Engineers went in and over the top, driving the Boche before them. Lieutenaut Lester B. Pickering, '17, led his men through the red hell of machine gun fire. A bullet pierced his right leg, glancing off the bone. Adjusting his own first-aid, and neglecting the advice of his fellow officers, he continued the advance, although walking with difficulty.

A few days later an official order from the commanding officer of the regiment was necessary to put him in hospital. Lieutenant Pickering practically recovered from his wound and anticipated a soon return to his organization. when he fell victim to pneumonia following influenza and died at Base Hospital No. 23, Vittel. near Neufchateau, Department to Haute Marne, · France.

Lieutenant Piekering's military record was brilliant. Making his preparations to enlist even before the official declaration of war. he was selected to go to the First Officers' Training Camp at the Presidio. Receiving a commission as second lieutenant and being assigned to the 316th Engineers, he reported to Camp Lewis in August, 1917, and assisted in laying out that great cantonment. Before his division left for overseas, Pickering exchanged his gold bars for silver ones.

Having completed his work in civil engineering before leaving the campus, Lieutenant Pickering was awarded his diploma in June, 1917. His wife and family reside at Monroe, Washington.

Lieut. Lester B. Pickering

Rhodes Harold Gustalson

THE first loss suffered by the University of Washington Ambulance Corps, recruited on the campus early in May, 1917, was that of Rhodes Harold Gustafson, '20, who succumbed to pneumonia, March 27, 1918, while the unit was still being held at Allentown, Pa., preparatory for service overseas.

Young Gustafson enlisted before the close of his freshman year in college, but he had already shown remarkable capacity for debating, having represented the Badgers Club and managed the freshman debate in which the University of Puget Sound was de-feated. He majored in the college of liberal arts and became affiliated with Alpha Theta Epsilon fraternity. He made his home with his parents at 414 Ninth Avenue, Scattle.

ITTED against the famous Prussian Guards, the unit to which Lieutenant Lloyd T. Cochran, '17, was attached, gained every objective and taught the world that the Yanks could fight. In the awful carnage in the Argonne he lost his life, September 26, 1918.

Lieutenant Cochran was graduated from the Law School, and was a prominent member of Phi Delta Phi, honorary law fraternity. He attended the first Officers' Training School at the Presidio and won a commission. After a period of training at Camp Lewis he went overseas with Company F, Three Hundred and Sixty-third Infantry.

R ALPH B. REES, '21, went overseas with the headquarters company of the 158th Infantry. Before seeing active service he contracted pneumonia and died in France, October 8, 1918.

Rees entered the University from Portland, where he made his home. Ilis major was electrical engineering. He was a member of Pi Tau Upsilon fraternity, and left selbool in June. 1918, to enter the military service.

Ralph B. Recs

FANK PETERSON, '21, enlisted after only a few months of college life.

He died of disease November 6, 1918, with the American Expeditionary Forces in France. While on the campus Peterson became affiliated with Kappa Psi fraternity.

DWARD C. CUNNINGHAM, '20, lost his life in France December 20, 1918, from pneumonia. He went overseas with the 16ist Infantry. His high standing as a soldier won him an appointment to an officers' training camp, but he died before completing the course.

ARRY LEAVITT, '17, died after a short illness in a Scattle hospital, March 28, 1918. He was attached to the quartermaster's department at Camp Lewis. Mr. Leavitt was a member of the Young Men's Hebrew Association.

Our War President

Proxy Fires the First Gun in the Red Cross War Fund Drive

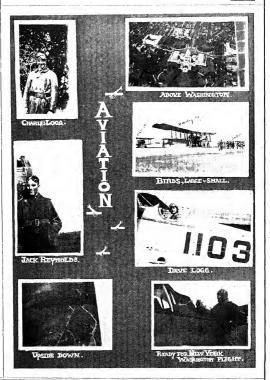

THE "War President" of Washington during the swiftly-moving events of 1918 will go down on record as one of the makers of history of that year.
Not only in state but in national affairs, and in the big evice movements aimed at winning the war for democracy, Dr. Henry Suzzallo gave distinguished service.

A genius for leadership, a virile personality, a capacity for swift keen thought and forceful expression are large gifts; and it is not surprising that they called their owner beyond local limits out into the larger field of service at the national capital, as one of the men most closely in touch with affairs of the Northwest.

Much of this service cannot be estimated, since it was confidential in nature, in advisory capacities connected with labor adjustments; and this is nowhere recorded. Much also was personal in character, as countless speeches for local Red Cross, Liberty Loan and other patriotic drives. He served on innumerable committees and acted as chairman of the State Council of Defense and adviser to the National War Labor Policies Board

Our Fighting Faculty

Major Wm. F. Allison

The first faculty man to enlist, who spent sixteen months as railroad builder and sanitary engineer in the devastated regions of France. THE "Fighting Faculty" of Washington scattered well to the four corners of the map of Europe during the two years of America's share in the world war.

In France they were building railroads, at the front on the battle lines, searching for dead and wounded with Red Cross divisions, in hospital service and intelligence squads. In Italy, two members went through the fiercest of the fire in the Monte Grappa district during the victorious Italian offensive against Austria. One member is in England in Y. M. C. A. service, and from last news another had been ordered to Berlin.

More of them were sprinkled through the camps of the United States in service as varied: in chemisal laboratories, making deadly and highly explosive poison gases, mustard, "sneeze" and tear gases to confound the enemy; in engineering camps connected with the army; in aviation fields or signal corps stations, or perhaps in some scientific research post. A small colony of them were settled at Wash.

ingtou, D. C., with the "das and Flame" corps, the commissary department, the Fuel Administration, the War Labor Board, and in numerous official capacities. The University librarian received special leave of absence to install a soldier's library at Camp Fremont, California. A member of the French department was released to superintend instruction of officers and large classes of "doughboys" at Camp Lewis in military Freuch for overseas use. Numerous men from other departments gave evening courses there in history, English, or zoology, going after hours several times a week for the purpose.

Several went into Red Cross work, which took them to distant parts of the state. This dealt with after-are of disabled soldiers, civilian relief, the Junior Red Cross department, general development work or such special work as the superintending of surficial most dressings for the Northwest

In all, 53 members of the Washington faculty were granted leave of absence from the University for some kind of war service. Of these, fourteen went overseas, while the example, with his fellow workers, spent days and nights with the hosts of problems that arose in connection with the swift adaptions necessary in conforming the University to war plans. One member of the history department delivered something like a hundred lectures for benefit and other occasions connected with war work, and other examples might be cited in this line. The head of the English department engineered a highly successful super-drive for funds for the Y. M. C. A., assisted by a small army of campus workers. Other faculty members devoted hours to the gathering of sphagnum moss, or to superintending student work in making it into surgical dressings for the hospitals of Europe, or to giving four minute speeches, or in a thousand ways which can not be detailed.

In truth, the war work of the Washington faculty was in mass, and is here so treated, rather than in detail. Names, details and specific occupations may be found in the current Biennial Report, with its careful listing. Since these sketchy pages, with their high lights and shadows, can not hope to be complete, the only attempt made is to indicate the versatility of the Washington faculty crow, and the writing of this story is indeed a tale of "ships and shoes and scaling wax and cabbages and kings." Faculty war gardens and royal decortions all belong in the list. Scaling wax was plentiful on diplomatic documents and commissions; the magic shoes of Mercury would be needed in paging the wanderers. And as for the ships—are they not still energying these wanderers back from everywhere and from No-Man's Land?

Would we might follow that same bardy erew out into the highways and byways of life in quest of the gleam of a hetter day for mankind, or sit with them faithfully at home grinding away with committees in search of the same eeric light. But even as the tale of the one gold star that twinkles in the Washington faculty service flag is told elsewhere, so shall we leave the whole story to the silent winess of deeds rather than words.

What Our Women Did

Marjoric McKillop

F 18 TY-ONE women of the University of Washington have been enrolled in government war service.

Twenty of these reached France, ten of them as telephone operators in the Signal Corps.

Adele Hoppock, Helen Hill, Jennie Young, we cited for heroism for remaining at their posts in burning barracks until ordered to leave. At one time they were within thirteen niles of the front. They served with the headquarters of the Birst American Army at Toul, Verdun and Paris, Eleanor Hoppock supervised the Fourth Telephone unit. She and her sister, with Marjorie McKillop, Ellen Turner and Doris Summers served as operators at the Peace Conference.

Florence Finch Dickson, with Base Hospital No. 50, contrived to be a dictitian, though handicapped by a lack of variety in available foods.

Jeanette Barrows lost her life from pneumonia while serving as reconstruction aide in an eastern army hospital.

Six women "took to the water" and forthwith became yeomanettes, stationed at the campus Naval Training Station or at Bremerton.

Helene Moore was successful in canteen work for the Red Cross in France.

"A very foolish rale," so the Signal Corps women say, "is the one that forbids musses' aides and signal corps operators from associating with privates or civilians."

A flag with 51 stars was presented to the University by Tolo Club, npperclass women's honor society.

The University's only Red Cross nurse is Katherine Bickel, whose brother was an early winner of the Croix de Guerre.

Rosamond Raussen, Dorothy Morehouse, Louise Cutts, Helen Schumacher, Hope Willis did elerical and laboratory work in Washington, D. C.

"It is our privilege, not our duty, to do our utmost." This was the spirit of Washington women in service.

OR volunteering to rescue a number of wounded men from a trap so dangerous that even the French commander would not order the ambulance to attempt to save the men, Sergeant Edward Bickel was decorated for bravery, Lieutenant Phil A. Henderson of the 12th Aero Squadron Observers, accompanied by one other pilot who was later killed, encountered a patrol of eight enemy pursuit planes in the Toul sector, France, August 28, 1918. They were successful in driving the enemy off, and for this extraordinary heroism were later decorated. A distinguished service cross was presented to Lieutenant A. E.

Easterbrook for extraordinary heroism in action in the St. Mihiel sector, September 12, 1918. Lieutenant Easterbrook volunteered to fly over the enemy's lines on a photographic mission without the usual protection of the battle planes. He penetrated four kilometers behind the German lines, and although he was attacked by four enemy machines, he completed his mission and returned in safety. A few weeks before the signing of the armistice, Lieutenant Easterbrook cut the fifth notch in his gun, after bringing down his fifth enemy plane, for which he is rated as ace,

One of the first University men to receive the Italian war Cross was John Sutthoff, a member of the Washington ambulance corps, which as a unit was commended for its services in Italy. For his unusual bravery in directing a tank attack in the section of the Bois de Cuisey and for rallying a disorganized force of infantry, Col. Dan Pullen was personally presented with a D. S. C. by General Pershing,

While at an elevation of 18,000 feet, Lieutenant Paul Coles received a wound in the neek. In spite of the pain, he did not reveal the fact to the observer until the landing was made, when he collapsed. Because of his bravery he was presented with a Distinguished Service Cross.

Lt. Phil A. Henderson

Denoting citation for bravery, Lieutenant Ross L. Wilson is the possessor of a French Croix de Guerre and a shoulder cord,

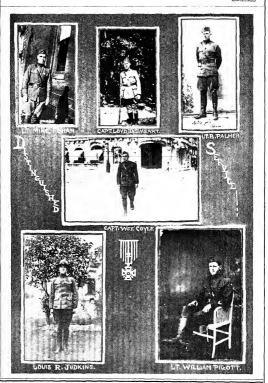

For working on the Signal Corps lines during the night of May 3, 1918, in spite of a continuous bombardment and gas attack, thus assisting in maintaining communications within the shelled area on the Picardy front, Corporal Louis R. Judkins was awarded the Croix de Guerre and eltation for bravery by the French and American governments. At this time he was gassed and sent to recover in a hospital. Corporal Judkins, who was a member of the Second Field Battalion, Signal Corps, participated in the battles on the Toul sector, Picardy sector, Solssons, Ponta-Mousson, St. Mihiel, Argonne Forest, Buzancy and Sedan, The entire First and Second divisions were cited for bravery by the French government, and all men of these divisions are entitled to wear the Legion of Honor, a French decoration.

For his valor under shell fire in Italy Sergeant Leslie Craigen was awarded the Italian Croce di Guerra. Sergeant Craigen was in charge of four cars at Mount Carlola during the week of the last big Italian drive, which forced the Austrians to surrender on November S.

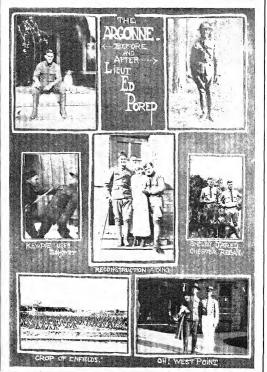

For distinguished service in Italy, Alfred Miller was not only awarded the commission of major with the Medical Corps, but was also presented with the Italian War Cross.

R. O. T. C.

Lieut, Col. Kirwin T. Smith

TEET Lieutenant Colonel Kirwin T. Smith, holder of the 1909 gold medal for the best rifle shot in the American army, and Mack, his fourfooted "pal." Colonel Smith arrived on the campus the last of March and took command of the Reserve Officers' Training Corps, the military organization that was re-established by order of the War Department upon the demobilization of the S. A. T. C.

He went to Europe with the Fifth Division in April, 1918, as an officer of the operations division of the general staff. He was on duty at the Swiss border, attended the A. E. F. Staff College at Langres, and served with the Rainbow Division, and then with the 32nd in its advance last October east of the Mense. Ordered back to the United States to join a new organization, he was on duty at the War College, Washington, D. C., when the armistice was signed. Colonel Smith served through the Spanish-American war, rising from private to captain. When mustered out he accepted a commission as second lieutenant in the regular army, being promoted from time to time, until he reached his present rank. He served on the border during the Mexican concentration and was on duty there when ordered abroad.

Nine companies, composed of about 600 men, were under the direction of Colonel Smith. In addition to those studying military tactics, more than 100 men are taking naval drill under Lieutenant Robert D. Longyear. Colonel Smith was assisted by an instructional staff of three commissioned and three non-commissioned officers during his service here.

Naval Training Station

Ensign Malcolm J.

MANY were the friends made among the seven thousand men who received their training around the old Pay Streak.

When war was first declared and President Suzulo offered the government the use of ground on Lake Union for a training station, the offer was accepted and Commander Miller Preema was put in command. The plans were enlarged from a camp with a capacity for 800 men to such an extent that if the war had not ended until the spring of 1920, there would have been more than 15,000 men trained here. Over 7,000 men enrolled and about 4,300 men have finished their course and been such tito active service. Among these men were included the agval aviators, but besides these three were about 700 men in the nural unit of the Students' Army Training Corps. The men all worked with a will. A record was made of not one sections case of insubordination. That the camp has been a success is not disputed, and Commander Freeman, before leaving, said: "The men who made this camp are just American citizons, like you and me, and the real personnel of this camp has been the spirit of the men. What success has been attained is due to the fundamental characteristics of the American boys."

When the armistice was signed and Communder Freeman was able to again take up his private interests, Communder D. A. Secti was sent to relieve him. Commander Sect has been in the service of the navy for the last sixteen years, the past three being spent in the Philippine Islands, China, Japan and Honolulu.

The naval aviation section of the Training Station was first organized in June, 1918, and from that time until the first part of January, when the camp was demobilized, 400 men completed the ground school training and were sent to various flying camps. This unit was in command of Lieutenant Commander M. C. Montfort.

The Naval Training Station

S. A. T. C. Shells

HE Students' Army Training Corps at the University of Washington enrolled 1,792 men. Of these 1,027 were in the army, 734 in the navy and 31 in the marines.

The army unit was commanded first by Major William T. Patten. He was succeeded by Captain A. E. Aub, who was assisted by Captain H. C. Dunbar, executive officer; Lieutenant A. C. Shreve, adjutant, and a corps of second lieutenants varying from 15 to 20 in number.

The navy unit was commanded by Rear Admiral Chauncey Thomas.

The "Devil-Dogs" were commanded by Lieutenant Eric A. Johnston, a graduate of the University.

The army and marines were housed in 44 barracks scattered over the central part of the campus.

The gobs lived in a tent city on the lower edge of the campus, and were fed in the galley aboard the good ship Naval Training Station.

The Commons was transformed into a mess hall for the soldiers. Lewis Hall served as army and marine headquarters. Clarke Hall was hospital.

The campus military forces burst into undying fame with the "Battle of the Barracks," in which army and marines clashed. It was one of those historic fights in which both sides won a brilliant victory. Sixty-seven windows smashed. The hostile forces were taxed five cents per man as war indemnity.

Through long weeks of quarantine the enlisted men hugged the boundaries of the campus, looking longingly for some sign of outside life, co-ed preferred.

Demobilization before December 20 left 44 cmpty burracks. All but eight were enterly removed. Those retained were turned into house clubs for groups of S. A. T. C. men who remained on the camous for regular University work.

More than 100 of the army unit were recommended to Central Officers' Training Caups. The signing of the armistice prevented many of these from reaching their destinations.

The Mon's Building became a "Y" but and played a tremendous part in promoting the welfare of the enlisted men on the campus.

During the influenza epidemic 346 patients were treated in Lewis and Clarke halls, which were converted into emergency hospitals. About twice this number were given treatment in the morning and sent back to their barracks.

The phenomenal record of not a single case lost was made by the S. A. T. C. hospital workers. This was due to the wonderful co-operation of the community, of the filed Cross, of civilian contract surgeons, pursos and nursos' sides, volunteers, the army and navy medical staff, officers and men.

Only two members of the S. A. T. C. died during the entire period of the camp. One succumbed to an operation in Providence Hospital. Another died from complications of pneumonia which followed influenza. Bleven of the nurses became very ill with influenza, five of them contracting pneumonia.

During the 78 days that the hospital was open a total of 150 different diseases were diagnosed. Contagious diseases broke out, but were quickly isolated before they spread,

Albert G. Snow, U. S. A., captain of medical corps, was surgeon of the S. A. T. C. Mrs. Barbarn Bartistt, professor of public health, took charge, as the representative of the University, of the installation and management of the hospitals.

Senior Council

THE Senior Council consists of nine members of the Senior Class, who compose an advisory board. These members are appointed by the president of the class and act on matters regarding student discipline. They grant privileges to the various classes and organizations, and make recommendations to the faculty discipline committee. Many recommendations for the general welfare of Washington originate in the Senior Council.

Peace and Athletics

K AISERDOM was laid to rest on November 11, and before Christmas an increasing line of University officers and men found its way back to their Alma Mater and the blne and khaki uniforms were laid aside for spiked shoes, trunks and jerseys, and flaunel outfits. Hardened by intensive training in camp and in active service, the war athlete found himself in prime condition to battle for the Purple and Gold on field, water, and gridiron.

The opening of the fall quarter found the campus studded with barracks and the University administration in the hands of the military. Football was at first frowned upon, but found favor as a recreation for the training soldiers, sailors, and marines. Teams representing the three units and a "Varsity" S. A. T. C. team were developed and given a restricted schedule. "Tony" Savage coached the first string men, which included a number of veteran players from other colleges. No true Washington team was formed.

With the close of the war and the opening of the winter quarter, Coach Claude Hunt found five varsity basketball men and a large supporting squal returned for the season. Three of the "W" men and two of the 1918 Freshman varsity played a complete schedule in the Northwest section of the Pacific Coast conference and in the Northwest conference.

California and Stanford's eagerness to resume conference rowing brought a hearty response on the eampus. Ed Leader developed a practically new erew from a green turnout. One varsity and one former first-squad man led the youngsters through the season.

Although track survived the entire war period, little was done in the sport. The first call last spring brought a fair turn-out to Coast Vander Veer, including one letter man. Washington's successful bid for the Pacific Coast conference meet, May 31, provided an incentive for winning teams, both this and next year. Uncle Sam has still to give back Vander Veer's track stars.

Baseball was returned to the athletic calendar on probation this year, and at the same time "Dode" Brinker, the team's veteran coach, returned to the diamond. Unprecedented financial support during the season was demanded by the Board of Control to keep the sport on the athletic program.

The Class of 1922 provided the strongest freshman teams seen on the campus for many years. The frosh basketball varsity met and defeated every quintet in its class, and the baseball team and crew were up to the same standard.

NEW ATHLETIC SYSTEM

A new all-university program, providing for intramural sports under the supervision of A. S. U. W. managers and coaches, instead of those of the University, and providing for direct participation by every eligible male student in the University, was adopted in March and partially put into operation during the spring quarter. Under the new plan a trainer for all sports is on the campus during the entire year, in addition to the head coach and his assistants, who are in charge during the three seasons. The gymuasium was given over to the women pending the erection of a new building. Interfraternity, inter-class, and inter-club leagues and contests are now given a wide and important field from which a larger number and more developed group of candidates for the varsity teams are chosen.

ATHLETIC FUTURE ASSURED

With the return of the veteran athletes from government service, the adoption of the new athletic system, and assurance of large entrance classes, Washington is assured a most prosperous future in conference circles. The year of 1919-1920 will undoubtedly find the Purple and Gold in the victory column in each of the major and minor sports.

S. A. T. C. FOOTBALL

The S. A. T. C. football team was composed of men from Western and Middle-Western colleges. The Washington men were: George Allen, Ray Eckman, G. Waeckter, Sutcliffe and Lane. Men on the team were awarded gold engraved football fobs and were given a banquet.

Basketball

Jamieson

To say that the basketball team played in hard luck is to say the least. To be beaten time after time by one or two points and then to win from the same team by a decisive score was its experience. It showed the old Washington fighting game and the ability to battle and win against odds.

The first call for material brought out a large squad of new and old men, among whom were five varsity men. Captain Cook, Holbrook, Jamieson, Ide and Smith and several of the last year Frosh Varsity responded. The coach had a difficult time picking his men, consequently all those who were placed on the varsity squad had a hard fight. The team developed rather slowly, due to necessary changes caused by accident and shifting.

The conference opened on Washington's floor against W. S. C., the visitors winning both games after a hard struggle. It was evident from these two games that the team lacked team work and a shooting eye. In preparation for the series with Oregon the team was reorganized and the ragged edges worked off. As a result the Oregonians were sent home the losers in both contests.

The trip to Oregon, in which both the Aggies and Oregon were met in a two-game series, was disastrous, the varsity losing every game. The men on the team were poor travelers, as was shown by the fact that they lost to the same team at Eugene that they had won from on their own floor. Both games with the Aggies were lost by close scores and in the last minutes of play. The next week O. A. C. journeyed to Seattle, and were beaten in both games, showing again that the team could win at home but not on the road.

The season ended with a trip across the mountains, where two games were played with Washington State College and the University of Idaho, in which the varsity won one from the Pullman five and lost the other three. One feature noted at these games was the pep shown by the large turnout of student rooters.

Smith, at forward, and Cook, at guard, played consistent games during the senson. They were rivalled by Clinton Sohns, forward, and Ceeli Jamicson, center. Cairns played a good checking game at guard and Archie Talbot played in the first games when Sohns was injured.

With all the material that was shown this season and with the return of the veterans next season, the outlook for 1920 looks very promising.

Freshman Basketball

Freshman Team

F OLLOWING the successes of last year, the freshmen this year completed a highly successful season, having only been beaten once, and then by Tony Savage's High School All-Stars.

Under the guidance of Dick Munson, forward and coach, the first year men quickly got under way, and proceeded to win from local and out-of-town high schools with top-heavy scores. The team took two trips, one to Everett and one to Port Townsend, fighting brilliantly and winning both games.

The team was well balanced, with the individual work of Munson showing up as the outstanding feature. Considerable future varsity material was uncovered and some of the veterans will have to work hard next winter to keep their places.

The following played through the entire season and were awarded jerseys: Captain Dick Munson, Howard Kellogg, Charles Frankland, Ted Olson, Tommy Elliot, John Prim and Marvin Youngquist.

Interclass Basketball

HE sophomore team became class basketball champions when they defeated the Junior team, last year winners, in a snappy game played before a large gathering of class rooters.

Although each team had a late start, they quickly assumed shape and entered the race feeling confident of winning. The schedule included three games, the first between the freshmen and juniors, which was won by the juniors, giving them the right to play the sophomores, winner in the senior-sophomore game.

In the first game of the season the juniors defeated the freshmen, 19 to 10. Burke, for the winners, and Archie, for the lossers, played brilliant games, each eaging several baskets from the middle of the floor. The sophomore-senior game was equally as fast, the sophomores getting the big end of an 18 to 10 score. In the finals the sophomores won from the juniors in a rough and exciting game when Olsen, sophomore star forward, dropped in the winning basket. Thorsland and Olsen played stellar games for the victors and Burke proved to be the star for the loses.

Interfraternity Basketball

Phi Delta Theta Team

NE of the most closely contested and enthusiastic interfraternity basketball schedules ever played at this University was won by the Phi Delta Theta team on March 20, when it downed the Theta Chi quintet in the last few seconds of play in an extra five-minute game.

All the fraternities responded to Coach Arbuthnot's call in January, and the series was played in four sections, the winners of each section playing in the semi-finals. The race finally narrowed down to these semi-finals, in which Theta Chi won from Pi Kappa Alpha and Phi Delta Theta from Delta Kappa Ensilon.

After the finals the winning team was presented with a large pennant and a loving cup offered by Benton Brothers.

The members of the winning team were: Dean Archie, forward; Robert McCroskey, forward; Delmont Thorsland, captain, center; Gerald Waechter, guard, and Edward Rogers, pund.

Wrestling

Arbuthnot

Johnson

THE wrestling varsity had a very successful local season during the winter months, though the inter-collegiate schedule was cut down to one tournament. When the men went up against the strong O. A. C. team in February in a gruelling, hard fought match, Arbuthnot's men went down fighting in every bout. Against the Seattle Y. M. C. A. and the Bremerton Sailors, Captain Gibson led his men straight to victory.

The pleasing feature of the wrestling season was the large turnout in the gymnasium during the entire season. Never before did Coach "Jimmy" Arbuthnot have such a multitude of candidates for the mat sport. The new men were quick to learn and were made of splendid material, bringing the season to a close with an inter-class, all-university tourney which took a well deserved prominence in the athletic calendar.

Building a varsity team around Captain Blaine Gibson and Leonard Masui, both former "W" men, the coach found a strong man in Halton Johnson, the new captain-elect. Johnson, a 148-pounder, downed his man easily in the Y. M. C. A. tussle, but was pitted against the strongest men in the following matches.

In Bardarson the 158-pound honors never had a chance to slip through the season. He downed his man in rapid time in all three matches. De Spain won six of the nine rounds in which he worked.

Captain Blaine Gibson deserves unusual credit for his performances in the schedule. In the Y. M. C. A. meet he made a practice match out of his rounds. and had little difficulty in downing his opponent once and scoring a decision in the Aggies' affair. Though in a critical condition, due to nervous trouble, at the time of the Bremerton trip, Gibson was more than anxious to fill in at the 125-pound weight.

The only conference match was held in the local gymnasium against O. A. C. Little was known of the visitor's strength, and the fans expected a quick victory. Arbuthnot's grapplers fought with a game spirit, but found the competition of invincible class and were finally downed by a 26-13 score. Gibson and Bardarson scored 8 and 5 points.

In a post-season tournament the varsity met a husky sailor team at Bremerton and came home with a string of scalps. Johnson was defeated with a decision and down, and King put up an intensive fight against Rose, a professional, Pacific Coast champion, only being thrown after severly wrenching his shoulder. Each of the other men won decisively over his opponent. Coach Arbuthnot was satisfied with the season after the victorious windup,

Interclass Wrestling

7. Y

IN accordance with the new intramural athletic program an interclass wrestling match was held January 30th. In order to give every aspirant a chance and also to gct a line on the new men, no letter men were allowed to compete.

The tournament ended in a tie between the juniors and the sophomores, and the seniors won one match by forfeit, when no opponent appeared to contest Matsumto, entered in the 115-pound class. The second match was won by R. Forrest, junior, 125-pounder. In the 135-pound class, De Spain, after a lively match, downed his opponent, and Johnson, junior, followed with an easy win in the 148-pound go. O. Bardarson, representing the sophomores in the 165 pound weight, won the final match in a lively contest.

Boxing

UNIVERSITY boxing was confined to inter-class activities last winter. Coming up from an obscure gym pastine, the sport suddenly sprung into popularity as the season opened, and ended with a mammoth boxing carnival, at which decidedly high class talent was exhibited.

The tournament was held in the gymnasium on March 13, and all four classes entered their best artists. After an exciting group of preliminaries the freshmen won the finals.

Arthur Thiesen won the University heavyweight championship against Dick Muuson, and Ferbuson, '22, won his medal over Grienstein, '21, by just a shade. Hawley and Amundson cach took the campus championship in their classes. McCredy, '21, won the middleweight belt from Ralph Smith in a hot bout. Ray Guion, student manager, put a great deal of effort into staging the tourney and brought a house full of spectators.

Boxing has now established itself as an important minor sport and bids well for honors as a drawing card. With such a quantity of material now developed in the University, it will be the plan to stage a conference smoker next year.

Crew Season

The Crew

A FTER a lapse of a year, crew came back to its own. As soon as the weather permitted early this spring, Coach Leader issued a call for crew candidates. The response was disheartening, the most experienced men turning out having only had a season's training on last year's club crews. But hopes began to rise when Brandenthaler, former letter man, and "Chuck" Logg, who rowed on the 1916 Frosh crew, both having just been discharged from the army, reported for training.

Toiling day after day, in calm weather and in rough weather, the first and some varieties worked their hardest to perfect the famous Conibear stroke. As the season advanced a tentative first shell was chosen which began to resemble the pre-war eights in form and speed. Every position except stroke and seven was in doubt until just before the trip.

Much credit should be given Coach Leader for his unceasing efforts in rounding out a championship crew. This was his second year as coach, and the first time he entered an eight in an intercollegiate race.

Prospects for next year look very bright. With every member of this yeight, together with several of the returning veterans and the frosh crew to pick from, a vursity ought to be chosen which will journey to Pough keepsie and place the Purple and the Gold on the map as having the champion crew of the United States.

The California Regatta

THE Varsity and the Freshman crews left for California on Campus day, April 25, on the S.S. President, after two and a half months' training under the tutorship of Coach Ed. Leader. They reached San Francisco with the "Washingtonic" slightly damaged. It was repaired and the first workout was held Monday on the Oakland Estuary. After two days' gruelling and two days' light work-outs, Washingtonic metered a formidable eight in the triangular race against the Cardinals and the Blue

The races began at ten o'clock on the morning of May 10, before one of the largest crowds that ever witnessed a regatta on the Estaury. Stanford and Weshinston classified cars twice on the getaway. The third time California got off to a good start, leading their rivales by a good half boat length. The first minute registered 38 strokes for Washington, California leading by one boat length on a higher stroke. The struggle for honors between the Bears and the Vikings after the first minute provided thrill after thrill, both crews pulling a long steady stroke in good form. Stanford began to drop back after the second minute and did not figure in the race after the first mile. Leading the "Washingtonia" by a scant boat length California maintained her lead 300 yards from the finish line. Then came the test for form and the fight in the last spurt for honors. Nagler, heady cox for Washington, urged his men into a 34 gait. In a superhuman spurt, the Northeners gained a boat length, the eight instites rowing as one man. A second later the white cars of Washington fashed over the line, winners by four feet. The race was the closest and most sensational ever staged on the Pacific Coast.

The time made by Washington was 16:44; California, 16:45; Stanford, 17:32; which was remarkable considering the slow tide and the wind which the carsmen had to buck during the three-mile course.

At seven-thirty on the morning of their return, the student body turned out en masse to great Washington's victorious heroes.

The Frosh Crew

THE 1919 Freshman crew was one of the best that ever represented Washington in the South. Although they did not win they put up one of the prettiest races seen for years, losing out by only half a boat length.

Leave pears, resume out by oursy main a none tengent.

The first call was met by an enthulsatior response, over fifty reporting for preliminary instruction. Their early training consisted of learning the radiancies of the

that they were not to make the trip, because of the large expense it would entail.
Through the action of the Freshman class and the student body as a whole the necessary money was raised and the Frosh eight accompanied the Varsity.

After their week's training in the Southern climate they rowed on the Estuary in the plin of condition. California and Washington tool the lead from a perfect start, the two shells running nose and nose for the first mile, while Stanford slipped behind to a hopeless third. After the half-mile post was passed, Galfornia took the lead, with Stanford closing in on Washington. Washington then sprinted but falled to pass California, and finished half a boat length behind the Cubs, with the Palo Alito boat heif a length behind make the sprinted but falled to pass California, and finished half a boat length behind the Cubs, with the Palo Alito boat heif a length behind washington. Coach "Dode" Brinker Captain Beem ASEBALL was on probation. Its life depended upon its success this season. By the middle of the season, with six straight victories to its credit. and the conference championship practically einched, the team had succecded beyond expectations. With the return of such veterans as Beem, Taylor, Ladner, Chamberlain, Smith and Foran, prospects at the beginning of the season for a champion team were very bright. As soon as the weather permitted, Coach Brinker issued a call for men. Having a wealth of material to pick from, the coach was slow in picking his team and did not finally decide upon his men until just before the first game.

The locals opened the season at home on Campus Day with W. S. C. Chamberlain, pitching airtight ball, gave the farmers not a chance. The final score was: Washington, 8; W. S. C., 4.

The following afternoon "Dode" Brinker's men won the second game in a close contest, both teams having tightened up over night. The burden of pitching fell upon Burke, who acquitted himself in big league style, worrying his opponents and keeping his hits well scattered.

Two weeks later Washington invaded Oregon. The first game played against the University of Oregon resulted in an 8 to 4 victory for Brinker's men. Percy Chamberlain's pitching, and two home runs by John Allen and Ralph Smith were the features of the game. The next afternoon Washington won the second game, 7 to 2, Beem officiating on the mound.

The varsity then journeyed to O. A. C. and defeated them in two straight games, 12 to 6 and 3 to 1. Burke pitched the first game and Chamberlain the second.

NDER the direction of Coach Hunt, a freshman varsity baseball team was organized and put in the field. Competition was keen for places and the coach had a difficult time in selecting his nine.

Much of the success of the varsity can be traced to the frosh team, who furnished competition in early season practice games. The members of the team were: Torrence, Munson, Kawazol, Conner, Olson, Maloney, Peterson, Rowe, Williams, Leonard, Sargent and Janeek.

INTERFRATERNITY BASEBALL

N EVER before has there been so much interest shown in interfraternity baseball. Every afternoon during the season representative teams from to their heart's content. The race finally narrowed down to the Pi Taus. Fijis, Lambda Chi Alphas, and the Pi Kappa Alphas, neither team having lost a game in its league.

Track

W. VANDER VEER, Washington's "grand old man," tendered his resignation as track coach last spring, to take effect at the close of this year's track season. "Vandie" has been track mentor at this institution for thirteen years, coming here in 1895, leaving in 1904 to become athletic instructor at the University of Idaho, and returning in 1915, remaining here until the present time. During his college career he made a remarkable record as an athlete, winning medals in all events from 50 yards to 50 miles. His practical knowledge of the cinder path, together with his long experience as a physical director, has enabled him to turn out some consistently winning teams. With the passing of "Vandie" Washington loses one of the oldest and most energetic figures on the campus. It was through his efforts that track was placed on a firm foundation here. Denny Field stands as a monument to his indomitable energy and devotion.

"Hec" Edmunson, former University of Idaho track coach and member of the American team at the 1912 Olympic games, has been secured to take his place.

INTERCLASS TRACK

THE juniors took high honors in the interclass track meet, with the sophomores a close second. The second year men were in the load until the final event, when the junior relay team won from them in an exciting race. "Chunck" Brankland, a former Lincoln high star, and "Gus" Pope, varsity weight man, took the individual honors with two firsts apiece. They were rivaled by Goodner and Augerson, who were each credited with nine tallies. As in the interclub meet, Grey won the sprints, but was barred because of his "W." The final score in points was: Juniors, 49; Sophomores, 46; Freshmen, 34; Senjors, not entered:

Tennis

WITH five straight wins over Oregon to their credit, Washington's varsity tenn looks like a winner. Under the direction of Coach Arbuthnot, a schedule was worked out and elimination contests were played off, the winners of which were to represent Washington in the conference matches. These games were close and exciting, finally narrowing down to six men who ranked in the order named: Todd, Kitamura, Barker, Pope, Paul Holbrook and C. R. Holbrook. In the finals Todd won the right as ranking man, Kitamura second, and Barker third.

On May 9th and 10th the Washington net stars met and defeated the Aggie racket wielders in five straight matches on the local courts. Although the courts were in bad condition Friday for the singles, because of a recent rain, Todd, Kitamura and Barker had no difficulty in winning from their opponents. Saturday, Todd and Kitamura, and Todd and Barker easily won the two double matches.

Much interest has been shown in tennis this year, and conditions point towards its return as one of the major sports on the University sport calendar. . V.

SPORT REPRESENTATIVES

THE purpose of the Women's Athletic Association is to promote a higher physical efficiency among the women of the University of Washington by fostering an interest in gymnastic and athletic activities. The ideals of the organization are spirit, tecluical skill, health and scholarship.

The work of the association has been carried on under the supervision of Miss Helen Harrington, of Wellesley, Miss Jessie B. Merrick (up until the time that she took up the work of supervision of athletics in the Seattle schools), and Miss Irene Pray, of Teachers' College, Columbia, with the idea of developing the gymnasium work and athletics to the highest possibility.

DRAM

IBERTY LOAN posters were rivalled in profusion this year by vandeville posters. Vandeville talent budded forth in luxuint profusion and threatened to overgrow other forms of dramatic effort, but, fortunately for campus andiences, was pruned in time and the more sturdy blooms remained in the Medley Show and the Junior Girls'. What with organization vaudeville, Camp Lewis vaudeville, County Fair vandeville and the Orpheum the "dramar" was actually threatened, but the Dramatic Club finally decided to give a play, and so saved the situation.

The one remarkable thing about eampus dramatics of the year has been the intense interest shown in them. We now have with us every variety of dramatic club except for mon only, which alone is remarkable as a fact. This year saw the first efforts toward the actual building of a little theater for the University of Washington, and the formation of the Central Dramatic Committee to work for its realization. This committee is made up of representatives from all dramatic organizations and from the faculty, who work together in the interests of the drama on the campus.

The beautiful gray curtains which have been used to such advantage on the stage of Meany were the first tangible evidence of the work of the committee. They were bought by money advanced by the Dramatic Club, but since then each dramatic organization has paid for a share in the curtains, and as property of the Central Dramatic Committee they have already proved of inestimable value in eampus productions. Ugly stereotyped drops and sets which have been the betes noires for a decade, have been supplanted by these graceful easily arranged curtains.

THE MEDLEY SHOW

Campus favorites who had recently returned from service and newly arrived aspirants for dramatic honors made the first production of the year wholly enjoyable. The Medley Show is only a year old, but it bits fair to tival the County Fair and the Junior Girls' as a tradition beloved by the amusement minded.

Imogene Seton, a newcomer to the college stage, attracted very favorable comment for her lovely interpretive daneing in the Mask and Quill fantasy, "A Day in a Garden," in which she was "Noon." The gray curtains were used for the first time in this set, and made an effective background for the buoyant young dancers. Dorothy Jones as "Morning," and Anita Merry

Wheeler as "Night," and a chorus of "Hours" assisted Miss Seton. Red Domino's production of "Overtones," the Washington Square Players' unusual one-act play, was very capably handled by Mary Worsham, Florence Rogers, Olive Gwinn and Georgia France. The fantastic development of the theme of two women in their soul conflict as portrayed in actuality and by their overtones, the veiled figures, made an interest act.

The audience fairly rocked with glee at the antics of Ray Ryan and Irving Thomas, and so welcomed two men back from service who in past years have shown their ability as fun-makers. The two Mitchell boys, "Johnny and Bill," as newcomers, were welcomed in sineere fashion for their irresistible banjo playing.

Perhaps it was almost a reunion, and perhaps it was a welcome to the new era of peace time, but the Minstrel Show, though a relic of the black ages, was received with open arms. Even that joke about the "flu" which John Trumbull misplaced, was mirth-provoking, the day after, and the harmony was very good.

Iunior Girls Vaudeville

CLASS OF 1920-April 5, 1919

THIE quality of the second vandeville of the college sesson was tested by a tryout for place on the program, and so in place of choice and selection by the committee from the college as a whole the acts were named after a formal tryout had been made of all aspirants. It was a well-balaneed program, and, as in the ease of the Medley Show, quality rather than quantity was considered of paramount importance. Thus the andience was not sent away in a weary condition, vowing never to assist again in the long waits and longer acts, but left in a cheerful spirit at ten forty-five.

Imogene Seton followed the University Orchestra on the program in a dancing act utterly different from the one in which she made her debut. The seene was an Egyptian temple at midnight, and from the sarcophagus behind the altar a mummy stepped out.

The priestesses of the temple entered in ceremonial dance and paid homage to the strange figure. Muriel King as seemie artist made the aet an unusual one, apart from the dancing of Miss Seton.

For several years the members of the Dramatic Club have been treasuring their remembrance of Roy Rosenthal's dance interpretation when he was initiated and when he arrived in uniform one night and danced a spring dance. Campus audiences for the first time had the opportunity of laughing at his satiss and the combined efforts of Roy and Ray Ryan and Frank Preston, in guff, bunk and hotstuff, kept the audience in an uproar of enjoyment.

"The Little Shop Around the Corner" was a very well-written little play, with an indefinable heart interest as pictured in the happenings in a florist shop. Mary Worsham was the spinster who has been engaged for fifteen years and sees no hope of marriage until Mande, the sentimental office girl of the florist shop (Ruth Kerr), stirs up the procrastinating Mr. Jackson (Jonathan Trumbull) by sending flowers to his fiance. Harold Hutchinson played the Jewish proprietor, Slovsky, in an amusing style, and Clarence Shawler made Henry, the florist assistant, a vivid, smile-producing character. The arrangement of flowers presented by Scattle florists made the act very colorful, and the gray curtains used in place of an interior were infinitely restful.

Frank, Roy, and Ray

"The Junior Follies" did not have the spontaneity of "Kicking Kate" of last year by the same author, J. B. Carrigun, for the lyries of the latter, by George Balley, aided in attaining this, but the situation was essentially amusing, and the Vamp, as played by Jack Claypool, quite saved the day, as did some of the laugh-producing lines. The very stiff painted drop was decidedly inferior to the decorative barnyard with the gay trees and oats box of "Kicking Kate."

The cast was as follows: Theda, the Vamp, Jack Claypool; Percy, the Transcolleger, Chapin Collins; Dotty, the heroine, Jaannette Colton; Al Muscle, the returned hero, Keith Nusbaum; Musty Tome, the villain, Irving Thomas; Netty, the nurse, Beatrice Mathieu; Cox, Chuck Wiggins.

Marie Broulette, in an act billed as a pianologue, captivated the audience by her sallies on campus celebrities, as well as her really remarkable bleuding of jazz and classical technique. It would be very fortunate for us if she stayed with us next year.

The committee for the Junior Vaudeville was made up of: Beth McCausland, chairman; program manager, Florence Ragers; ticket manager, Elicor Clarke; business manager, Helen Sutthoff; assistant business manager, Edith Rice; costume manager, Fred Brockman; seenic artist, Muriel King; stage manager, Nelson Greenleaf; property man, George Crimmons; cleetrician, Frederick Keator; head usher, Elizabeth Council; senior advisor, Olive Gwinn; publicity manager, Byron Christian.

"The Junior Follies"

THE ADMIRABLE CRICHTON

By Sir James Barrie

Dramatic Production by University Dramatic Association. Staged by Mask and Quill, Associated University Players.

TWO strong campus organizations joined forces to make the production of an unusually fine play by the most famous English contemporary playwright an epochal event in the history of dramatics on the campus. "The Admirable Orichton," by Barrie, as presented May 17, marked a new step forward and is perhaps indicative of the new interest to be shown when the University will include dramatic study in the curriculum.

The whimsicalities in story and treatment were typical Barrieisms, and entertained the large audience hugely. Crichton is butler in the aristocratic home of Lord Loam, and he lords it over the other servants. Lord Loam, unfortunately for Crichton's peace of mind, has upsetting democratic notions, among which is a fondness for entertaining the servants in the drawing room at tea every week.

The uppishness of the servants was amusingly pictured in the first act, and the contrast between the Crichton of this and following acts was very well done by Roy Rosenthal in the leading role. The play as it unfolds takes Lord Loam, his daughters, Lady Mary, Lady Katherine and Lady Agatha; Ernest, his nephew, and Treholme, his rector, with Crichton and Tweenie as servants, on a yachting trip, during which they are wrecked on a desort island.

This event complicates matters to such an extent that the former master is made the servant, with his daughters, nephew and rector as willing slaves to the Admirable Criebton, now a most dictatorial ruler. And Barrie hus made use of the recognized fact of primitive culture, that he who works best with his hands is the natural ruler. The third act shows the party after two years on the island, each one vieing with the other to please "him." Lady Mary, erstwhile haughty and languid, is now the most beautiful of athletic young women, and is the favoriet of Criebton.

And to equally balance his theme Barrie shows them in the fourth act, back in England, the glory of Crichton as ruler banished, and bluff Lord

Loam in authority once more. The story of their adventures has been admirably distorted by Ernest, on the island a pleasant industrious young chap, but now the same silly young cad as before.

The moral of which, if one must look for it, is very delightfully anti-Bolshavik; that there must necessarily be rulers in every strata of society. And so haughty Lady Mary marries Lord Brocklehurst, her equal in station, and her former ideal, Crichton, deigns to bestow his hand upon the adoring Tweenie, kitchen maid and island ladies' maid. Lord Loam and Ermest spend their time industriously taking credit for all success on the island, and every one, of course, believes them.

Lord Loam was a very fat part, carried by Byron Christian, a newcomer to dramatics, but unusually gifted in voice and characterization. The trio of girls, Lady Mary as played by Grace Barnes, Lady Katherine, portrayed by Florence Rogers, and Lady Agatha, played by Laura Scongal, were given just the right touch of humor and distinctiveness in characterization. Evelyn Owen made a quaint little figure of Tweenie, both in the appealing scene in the first act and the seeme with Ernest, played very well by George Hopper, in the third.

Lady Brocklehurst, played by Amy McConihe; Lord Brocklehurst, played by Norman Branchflower, and Treholme, played by James Hermans, were all convincing characters. The remainder of the cast was made up of M. Fleury, Geral Bath; Rolleston, Paul Wood;

Thompset, Elon Gilbert; Thomas, Stnart
Barker; stable boy, Harold Hutchinson;
Freedlund; Mrs. Perkins, Elizabeth
McLean; Fisher, Georgia France; Simmons, Margaret Hammil; Jeanne, Olive Gwinn; Gladys, Anita Merry Wheeler; and Jane. Helen Hummer.

The staging of the play, particularly the scenery and lighting for the third and fourth acts, showed careful study of the inadequacies of the stage and an effort to overcome them, and to Mask and Quill members, with Muriel King as scenic artist, this is due.

COUNTY FAIR

RAMATICALLY speaking, the County Fair as a whole was a stage, and the traditional event, which fought for its life last year and eame up smiling this year, was a gladsome oceasion, marked in red ink on the spring calendar for its spontaneity and enthusiasm. Pethaps it was due to the happy combination of new students, to whom everything is optin, and of old students so glad to be back that things were equally joyful, but at any rate it was a wonderful evening.

The booths were not so elaborate as in past years, but the food and drink and entertainment were all of equally fine quality, which cannot be said of them in the past, when everything about the Fair has been a wild scramble and mixup and preparation in one day only. One of the startling things about it, too, was a dress rehearsal two days preceding. Verily the world do move, for we remember two plays given two years ago in which the players learned their lines during the course of the evening and the costumes were something resembling hurry-up calls for a formal garb.

"The Follies." presented under the auspiees of Quad Club, was the most pretentious act of the evening and vied with the entertainment given by D. K. E. for the greatest honors. Suffice it to say that the andience for the former fell in love with the Tickle Toe and tried to pick out premiers among the seven daneing couples, and the audiences for the latter were so overcome with mirth at the anties of Boy and Ray and the elimax of "Skunk Cabbage" that honors were equally divided. "Love Magie" was a dainty little comedy, presented by the Thalian Dramatic Club under the direction of Georgia France.

Women's League made over one thousand dollars at the County Fair, and at this date it is undecided as to what worthy cause a portion of this sum not dedicated to the cause of Campus Day shall be apportioned, but the Washington Union is the most apparent beneficiary.

Beatrice Mathieu was the chairman of the committee in charge.

Dramatic Personalities

MURIEL KING. 21, has weided her brush to produce very striking seenic effects in campus plays produced this year. The Egyptian temple, seene of the Junior Giris' Vandeville, was unusually beautiful, and in all of her work hiss King demonstrated the wonders of the gray curtains in various lights and arrangement. Plays produced this year by the Cornish School of Dramatic Art owe much of their success to her work as seenic artist.

Colin Clements, '17, who founded Mask and Quill as a chapter of the Associated University Players, has had a play produced by the Carnegie Players and has been associated with Stuart Walker of the Portmanteau Theater in New York. He is now in Europe as one of a staff of officers in charge of relief in the Near East.

Emma Lindsay-Squier, '16, who was prominent in play writing in the University, has her name signed to very interesting interviews with prominent motion picture stars in magazines devoted to the news of the photo-play world.

Cornelia Glass, ex-'18, has been playing second leads with the Wilkes Players this year.

Dorothy Constantine, '18, has been studying at the Cornish Dramatic School this year, and her work has been quite remarkable in one-act plays, as well as plays of greater length.

Campus plays suffered somewhat during the dearth of men in the way of stage lighting, but with "Fritz" Keator and Cy Campion at work once more the strips and ambers and the floods and the nitrogens have come into their own again.

Calmness is seldom an attribute of amateur directors of campus plays, but this year Florence Rogers, who, by the way, is very busy all the time in all kinds of ways, enjoyed the Junior Girls' Vaudeville from the front, and every act went on in time, and Florence appeared to congratulate every one for their splendid work. Which, of course, demonstrates her usual method of splendid organization.

Dean Glen remarked with great pride that there had been no Glee Club this year becamse there were no men in collega at the opening of the fall term when the musical organization is formed. "Only one man turned out for tryout, and he was too young to serve in the army or navy." said Dean Glen. But a very fine club is promised for next year, as many of the old men and a great many new once will be in college. (1, 1, 1) (1, 1) (2, 1, 1) (1, 1) (3, 1, 1) (1, 1)

The Spring Season

A FTER a year of war-relief work, kuitting bees, few dances and a dearth of men, the University social life began again in a mad whirl with the Tolo informal, February I. Held in the Armory, which was decorated with greens, teepees and symbols of the society, this affair was a pronounced success. For many of the returned men, this was the first dance they had attended for many a long month, and the joy of being home again lent added enthusiasm to their pleasure.

Then came the Varsity ball. To this dance has been voted the fame of being the best dance of the season. Flowers in profusion in hanging baskets and on trellises, gave an atmosphere of spring, while the novel innovation of the cabaret gave an original touch of distinction.

After-the-war parties and welcome-home parties were given by the classes in the form of mixers and dances. The seniors soirced as French maids and returned soldiers amid gold and black decorations. The juniors held their jink at Little's hall, and left out all features to devote their time entirely to daucing. The sophomores gave vent to their glee at the Knights of Columbus hall, while the freshmen froliced at the gymnasium.

The prom was another spring dance, with the hall beautifully decorated with greens and flowers, while the dancers, in formal black or khaki and bright colored dresses, glided over the floor to wondrous music.

Oval Club's dances were ever popular, and at each succeeding dance there were more and more familiar faces, with groups here and there holding miniature receptions.

Gradually, as the men returned to college and donned their "civies," olive drab and brass buttons slowly disappeared, until the character of our social life was no longer military, but had revolved again to the good old days "before the war."

THE Varsity Ball! No words can well describe it. From the time the dancers first danced off until the orchestra played "'Till We Meet Again," there was one continuous whirl of pleasure. Spring was there, as the pinky flowers in hanging baskets and twined on the trellis around the room testified, and after the dearth of men, 'twas indeed a welcome-home affair for many of the just returned college mcn. They danced on the main floor, and they danced on the floor below, though the eabaret was the greatest attraction. Here were many small tables, and the guests ate ice cream and little cakes, and gave vent to their joyous spirits throwing scrpentine and bright colored balloons. Freshmen girls in white, wearing fluffy white hats, served refreshments, and in a miniature arbor off the main floor they served delicious punch. And Professor Meany was there, and awarded the W's to the lucky winners. Then everyone formed in line and met President and Mrs. Suzzallo. This gave just the necessary dignity to the oceasion, and after it was all over, and the last note had been played, there was a sigh of regret, though all good things have an ending. But that "it was the best ball in years" was the unanimous verdict.

THEY. W. C. A. on the campus aims to stand for and promote a spirit of Christian friendliness among the women of the institution, and to develop through its various activities, committees and cabinets citizens who can and in the world outside. It aims, furthermore, to eco-perate in every possible way with ofter organizations for the development of the true spirit of a Greater Washington.

In spite of the abnormal conditions of the past year, certain very definite pieces of work have been accomplished and a membership of nearly six hundred has been attained. During the seven weeks of the influenza han the Y. W. C. A. oc-operated with the Y. M. C. A. in cancen work for the men in the S. A. T. C. and in the other military units on the campus. The outgoing officers and committee chairmen leave the association in splendid condition for a new year of even greater accomplishment, and with a very substantial balance in the treasure.

The Second Cabinet of the Y. W. C. A. has proved a most efficient means of bringing the vital points of Christian experience into the lives of more association members. The membership is made up principally, but not exclusively, or sub-committee chairmen elected by the First Cabinet. As an advisory group the Second Cabinet stands back of the official First Cabinet, connecting their respective units with the other units of association life.

PREAMBLE OF THE CONSTITUTION

"We, the men of the University of Washington, in order to promote, secure and maintain a Greater Washington Spirit of loyalty and service, the development of undergraduate co-operation and unity, the production of cultured leaders, and the attainment of our ideal, as students, of the ultimate American University, and believing that these aims can be best accomplished by the formation of a rallying standard around which the student body may concentrate, do found and establish an undergraduate honor fraternity for the men of this University."

Tolo Club

Founded 1909

6 (T OLO" is the Indian word meaning the achievement of success. The members are chosen from the ranks of the junior and senior classes. Personality, scholarship, and prominence in student activities are the fundamental issues that determine election to membership in the society. Service for Washington, rather than work for personal ends, is what "Tolo" wishes to reward.

Kla - How - Yah

The Independent Banquet Mixer

A la-HOW-YAH extends to every non-affiliated woman of the University a greeting of welcome. Its aims are those of good fellowship, seeking through its organization to give an opportunity for good fun, training in social intercourse, and the development of ideals of democracy and service for Washington. The colors of the organization are brown and green, friendly forest shades. The plant symbol is the cedar, fragrant with memories of delightful days in the woods. The pin is the peace pipe, wrought in gold, symbolic of the worth of true friendship. The name itself is the Indian greeting of one friend to another. It is this greeting that Kla-How-Yah extends, a greeting filled with sincere welcome and promise of opportunity to serve the University like true friends of Washington.

U. Of W. Tillicums

Organized March 20, 1919

THE U. of W. Tillicums is an organization for all independent men on the campus. Its purpose is to create and foster a spirit of fellowship among the maffiliated men, and to provide for them opportunity for leadership and participation in all student activities which, otherwise, would not be within their reach. Through the rapidly increasing realization of these ideals, the Tillicums, in the short space of three mouths, has grown to be the largest organization of its kind in the history of the campus; and with the opening of the fall quarter it will become a powerful factor in building up the union "For a Bigger and Better Washington."

The University Dames was organized to make a home in University life for the woman student who is married, and to give her the encouragement of acquaintance with other women who are seeking higher education; in its growth a place was found for the mature unmarried woman because of her desire to meet women of her age.

The organization aims to bridge the gap between the woman student and the girl in college, and to further the easy association of people of differing ages.

Menorah Society

THE Menoral Society of the University of Washington is one of fifty or more organizations throughout various American universities devoted to the study of Jewish ideals and culture. These organizations are federated by a centralized body, the Inter-collegiate Menorah Association. The Washington Menorah, since its organization in 1912 by a few ardent Menorahites, has been budding into prominence, and by reason of its intensive work has been adjudged one of the most active organizations on the campus.

California Club

Twenty Californians met at the Theta House on the evening of April Sth, and formed an organization. The aim of the club is the aim upon which all such collegs societies formed: to bring the people of California, now in this University, in closer touch with each other. Further than this, they want to be known as an organization on the campus, and as such to support, actively and enthusiastically, any Washington undertaking.

Senior History

THE class of 1919 has had perhaps the most unusual history of any class that Washington has known. It started out by rapidly gaining for itself the reputation for being the "peppiest bunch" that had come to the eampus in many years. Reviving worthy traditions which were being indifferently allowed to die out was its special hobby.

As a sophomore unit a more than creditable record in athletics was made. Six of the "'19'ers' were on the varsity football squad, and the basketball team after winning the inter-elass championship was sent on the longest trip that a Washington team has ever made. The women, not to be ontdone, carried the championship of the baseball series.

During these two years the tension of American patience with the acts of an autocratic Germany lad been becoming more and more taut, and in the spring of 1917 it snapped. Then the ranks of the class of 1919 were rapidly depleted, as man after man dropped his college work to offer his services to his country. If was a staggering blow. The future that had been so promising looked dark. Junior men who returned in the fall were merely waiting until they, too, would be called to action. War interest dominated all others.

Nevertheless the big events of a junior year were given. The Junior Prom, Junior Girls' Vaudeville, and Junior Day, were all voted to be successes.

Then began a senior year which will probably never be duplicated. The women far outnumbered the men. They took upon themselves the duty of maintaining the reputation and earrying on the work of the '19 class. Both the president and the chairman of the senior council were women, who deserve credit for successfully cuiding the seniors through a trying period.

The signing of the armistice released many, who returned to the University, but only a few were 1919 men. Four of the class who left will never return, others are still in the service, and still others have come back, not to college, but to take their places in the business world.

If would have been worve if the Chief Nut had wrayed

Roy'n Ray

PRETTILY posed portrait of Roy 'n Ray, taken about ten years before their appearance in "The Baby Is Dead" and "Skunk Cabbage," showing how they got their start. This picture was not used against either of them in their campaigns.

HERE is our estimable A. S. U. W. president, Halter Wodge, in his most playful mood. We have known for some time that Walter had a drag—but as to how he got it we have never been sure, until this pieture was submitted for publication. Halter, we hear, has a kind and generous disposition, but even the hest of us must now and then raise Cain. The victim of Walter's "pull" is Serena Johns—a freshman who is from Tacoma, and therefore not used to the wild ways of A. S. U. W. presidents and things.

Walter talks much of greater Washington during the winter, and as far as we can discover, sits in the sand and acquires sunburn in the summer (see on another page) to rest up for the next year's campaign.

That there is much of the eave man still existant in Walter is readily shown by his exultant smile and his flexed muscles (the muscles are in the coat sleeve). When last seen he was walking fast, whether pursuing a great idea or another victim, we do not know.

THE Nut Howe Nuts formed itself as an honor Nonsentic fraternity in the third quarter of 1919. The local chapter is known as Pistachio and the color is pistachio green. There are said to be over nine thousand chapters in existence in the Caucasian race alone, and much more so among the colored peoples. The pin of the organization is a beautiful creation of transparent peanut shell embossed with a translucent minus. The ideals of the order are very high, one of the chief purposes being to remove all the classrooms from the lower floor of Denny Hall so as to give more room under the clock for meetings. The rites and ritual of the National organization are most mystic and supernatural. Anyone on the campus acting like a goof may be suspected of membership.

This is the Crew that Should Have Gone "Souse"

WITH the first call for turnouts this noble erew turned out—and went into training. They gave up strawberries in January—they gave up seleping over the week-end—they shined their shoes every day—and suffered.

These and many other privations they suffered.

It was not until the night of the County Fair that this Killing Krew showed the stuff heroes are made of in their "Follies." Not allowed to take part in any intercollegiate sports, they confined themselves to this interfraternity struggle—and played Fair.

"Send 'em Souse."

About Town

I T was wild that night, in the house of the Deke. Shallow-vested women sang, and pattered in satan slippers. Echoes of endearing choruses floated up and down the street. Crowds gathered and gazed into the windows for which there were no blinds.

And still the female voice arose. And "Bravo, bravo," issued from the audience within. And powdered arms flashed across the windows—flashed tauntingly at the watchers without.

And the throng wondered.

But it was no seandal. That, the college discovered on the following day. The habitats of the law school stage an annual smoker. Bay Ryan and Wendell Black are law students. Bay Ryan and Wendell Black are law students. Ray Ryan and Wendell Black are law students.

The Deke house and all its furnishings were loaned for the purpose.

And the song and its singer? She was an entertainer from the base of the Cowen Park jitney line. And it was no fault of Dean Condon's if that entertainer chose him as a subject—and sang, "Who's Honey Are You?"—with cestures.

Gentlemen Of Leisure

In answer to the queries as to what that cave dwelling tribe, the Delts, do when they are at home in their native wilds, the Tyee is publishing these pictures.

In the first, the quiet little game is only starting, and every man has a coat and vest, and some have watches that mother gave them for not smoking, drinking or swearing until they were twenty-one, but in the second every man's lat is in the ring, also his coat and his shoes. The third should be an object lesson in itself. Jack has succeeded in establishing a monopoly. The rest of the brothers have flown, whether from necessity (they say they do things like that when they gamble) or from choice, we have not been able to find out up till press time.

How do we know they're Delts? Because they wear their coat sleeves too short and part their hair in the middle.

And here is some dope on the Phi Gams. On one side we have an illustration or how Ma Ellis lost his head, and in the other Bob Fox playing that he is a cave man—and making poor Jo blush entrible.

You Can't Shake That Shimmie Here

ND this is the story of a memorial struggle which won two cups for dancing. It happened at the ball that ended Campus Day. And when the dust of battle lifted, two shining vessels were clutched in the arms of the victors.

That waltz will go down in history. It has gone down-even as the unfortunates who presumed to stand the wicked pace set by Keith Nusbaum and Beatrice Upton. One by one the opponents dropped from the race. Some skidded upon splinters of the old gym floor. Some were pocketed by the fighting mob. Some sank to the boards beneath the viscious crunch of number 9's.

And the judges gave it to Keith and Bee-for valor and fortitude under

Then came the step. It was a repetition of the gruelling battle gone before. Again the combatants were eliminated beneath the all-seeing eye of the judge. Again a motley crew narrowed down to a pair of champions. And when all save two had left the floor, Ralph Smith and Gretchen Brehm bowed amid uproarous applause:

They were steppers premier, of a greater Washington.

After the Ball Is Over-- After the Day Is Done--

NE by one they climb up on the door mat and say they've had the most wonderful time they ever had, and it was so nice of him-and-until they have worked themselves up into a froth of enthusiasm. Then one by one they enter the door and wipe the smile off their faces, and kick off their shoes.

When the crowd around the fireplace, or on the davenport is large enough for a quorum they call the meeting to order.

From that moment on woe be unto the men, for when the sisters of any tong call a meeting "after the ball is over," men suffer.

The listening reporter was only able to glean something like this:
"And we had every waltz—and he was the most wonderful dancer—" "If he is your idea of a slicker-I'd like to see your idea of a raincoat-"

"We went in a street car-"

"It isn't that I don't want him to dance with other girls-but-" "I had the rottenest time I've had since the fiu ban-"

"An' he said to me, 'Mable, I'd rather dance with you than'-" "There was one man that danced with me who was so short that he made me think of the balcony scene in 'Romeo and Juliet'-''. "My shoes are ruined-"

"The first thing after we got there, he said-'you surely are looking good' -to me-just like that-"

"There were more flowers in our bunch than in any other, although I noticed-" "Do you suppose he is really engaged-"

"Her dress was blue, and she looked sad, and, my dear, did you see who she was with ?-- "

"I know he asked her second choice-because he asked me first."

About that time—the reporter seeing no abatement in sight—crept away. muttering, "How do they do it?" but those are his notes. What can it all mean?

Miss Construe-d Queries

Dear Miss Construe:

I am a fine young fellow, home from the wars, and just about to launch into my life's career. I have made one mistake, and I come to you for help. Being a D. U., I have never done much stepping, except on girls' feet, and I find I have but few friends among the ladies, or words to that effect. What can I do to redeem myself's Sincerely.

ET.ON

ELON: Heavy, heavy hangs over your head—so the little game goes.

If you have brown eyes, prepare to use them now. Go to as many dansants as you get invited to. (1 trust you will spend all your Friday afternoons at home.)

Construe, old scout-

Sh! not a word.

I wanna be a vamp. I wanna comb my hair back of my cars. I wanna wear a dress with a spider on it. I wanna treat 'em like dirt and have 'em come running back for more.

What ho! How do?

Sh! Not a word to the sisters!

POOTS.

POOTS: Possible.

Shimmie, weed eyebrows, sigh; acquire chaiselonge, lamp, feather, fan.

J. J. T.: A stitch in time saves sitting in the draft. What was the matter with your pretty green cont with the little strays on the collar? Or else, why didn't you stay—that is to say—in a word—all other things being equal—why didn't you stay in a sitting posture until every one else had gone?

Miss Construc:

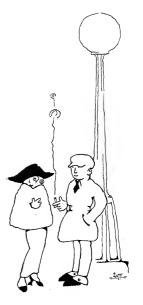

We really don't care, ourselves, but people will talk, you know. They say we're blase. How absurd. Anyway, what is there such a row about? It's just that we're out of our sphere.

Sorry to bother you. Should we perk up? Now be a good girl and tell us a bit. We're friendly, you know.

Thanks,

Randolph Cuuningham, Marian Tibbetts, Hazel Reed, Francis Grayes, Emmy Robinson.

BORED-ERS: You might go to New York, Chateau-Thierry or Montana.

Junior History

To begin with the Junior class had a mumber of things to live down. There were monocles and derbies and Keith Nusbaum as president, and Elon Gilbert, and Jimmy Gilluly, that's five—and any number of others.

Right from the start it was a struggle. Well, finally Keith Booze-hound came back to school, and with Keith at the helm and Jin Wheeler as sergeant-at-arms to keep people from falling asleep at class meetings, the junior ship set sail.

Next, Elong Gilbert started a black list and was properly called for being one of the moneyed class and causing some of Mama's darlings to waste fleir bard-wore cash.

Then again, they adopted derbies. The boys—that is. Every mother's son of them got out a derby, and rested it on the back of his collar and brazenly appeared on the campus with it. Some of them even effected a velvel band—although a brass band could not have caused more attention.

And the grits got wall-eyed carrying monocles. Around their necks they were ribbons from which dangled monocles. Finger-marked and rain-specked are the monocles and about as transparent as the average fraternity house window—but they were them and had contests to see who could carry her monocle the farthest.

The other day some one asked me if there was a Senior class in school. After long that I remembered that I had two friends who had done their sixteen hours per quarter for four years and were due to buy announcements and calling cards and rent a cap and gown.

But this information was gotten by sneaking up on it—and is all I could get concerning the class. Someone said that it had died during the flu epidemic, another that it was merely being rushed Phi Beta Kappa, still another that it had decided to become a Junior and graduate next year since the men were all hack.

At any rate information is wanted concerning the dear departed wraith. Will all Seniors please sign on the dotted lines?
